GOLDEN, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, APRIL 5, 1901

$2 PER YEAR.

DON'T JUDGE THE STORE

By the little we tell of it week by week. Not one in fifty of the happenings here gets a word in our advertisements; they change too quickly even for printing presses, and maybe we don't talk about the things you wish most to hear of.

We've told you below of special values in curtains and hinted at the unusual prices of other lines, but at best they are suggestions only, taken at random. We can do much better face to face.

CURTAINS.

- Nottingham Lace Curtains, new style pattern, bound all round, per pair..... 50
- New design English Lace Curtains, 3 1/2 yards long and full 50 inches wide. $1.75 worth of curtain value per pair..... 1.00
- Heavy effect Lace Curtains, 3 1/2 yds. by 60 in. Swiss net effect Lace Curtains, with light scroll borders and small floral patterns, per pair..... 1.50

ORDER BY MAIL, IT'S JUST AS CHEAP.

You can save time and trouble if you will order all your drug store goods by mail, of Mallery, Kamloops. Of course, whenever you come to town we'll be more than glad to see you—but, lots of times we want one thing and another from the drug store and don't feel like going all the way to town for them. Don't! Just order by mail, that's just as cheap and always satisfactory.

Errands too...

Of course we're busy most of the time, but we are always pleased to accommodate our customers. When you order by mail of us, and want some little things outside the drug store line which we do not keep, but which can go with our things, by mail, we'll be very glad to step out and get it for you. We want to make it so pleasant and so advantageous to buy all your drug store goods of us—by mail, by messenger, or in person—that you will have no inducement or inclination to trade elsewhere.

Revelstoke has purchased the water and light company's plant for nearly $70,000 and will expend another $80,000 in improving and extending the systems. Golden has neither light nor water supplied but the citizens will, no doubt, owe these important factors of civilized life when the time arrives for their construction.

The Junior football club received its new ball recently and will use it in an exhibition match today on the grounds next Parson's big store. It is the intention of the club to issue a challenge to the Revelstoke club shortly or to any other club within fighting distance of Golden. The club expects to make it decidedly tropical for the pigskinners of Calgary in their proposed match.

Appropos of the census now begun the following is an experience of an Irish enumerator last census: "How old are you?" was asked of a country woman of his own. "I have seen 27 summers," she replied. "Seen them?" said he with an expression that betrayed some doubt. "How long were you blind?"

Charity covers a multitude of sins. Two typographers have been the recipients of kindness from friends, who in their fullness of sympathy, have shown that all mankind are akin. To have bread cast, not upon the waters but in one's door, is the very essence of charity and the thanks of the typos is heartily tendered to lady friends for bread, buns, bed, etc. Paddy vibicium.

The census enumerator will want to know your age, color, nationality, religion and how much money you make. If you don't answer him he can summon you before a court with the power to fine you as high as $50. The enumerator has 84 questions to ask so a busy half hour may be expected when he calls on you. All officials are bound by oath to strict secrecy, hence bachelors and spinsters will have no compunction in giving their age, origin, or nationality and if they choose they may talk the confiding enumerator their prospects in matrimony. It is understood Messrs. Smith, Grady and Moody have been appointed as enumerators and their duties have already begun. J. C. Greene is commissioner for Northeast Kootenay.

TROOPER RENNIE RETURNS.

Reminiscences of Strathcona Horse in South Africa.
 Charles Rennie, who enlisted with the Strathconas at Revelstoke, arrived in Golden on Saturday on a short visit to his sister, Mrs. Gould, briefly relates some of the experiences the regiment had in South Africa. It is interesting to note that the Canadians were all ways in the van and acquitted themselves with a credit worthy of old soldiers of the line. He speaks in the highest terms of Col. St. Cleair praises Lieut. Leckie, of Greenwood, who was a general favorite with the men.

During their term of service the Strathconas were always at the front, serving under Buller, Cleary, Barton, Baker or Knox. Out of the 84 days during which they were with Buller, the Strathconas were 76 days under fire, and were in the trenches during the three days of that terrible artillery duel at Burgardal, and were also engaged in the hot fight at Frederickstein. They were shelled all day at Crocodile valley, and during six weeks they were with Knox in pursuit of De Wet. There was hardly a day in which they did not exchange shots with the enemy. As an instance of the hardships they had to endure it may be mentioned that on one occasion they were ordered out for a two days' trip, and were sent in light marching order, not even being allowed to take their overcoats. Instead of two days they were six weeks on the march, without tents or bedding, and most of the time it rained heavily. Their rations sometimes consisted of only a handful of flour. They traversed most of Natal, Orange Free State and the Transvaal.

Mr. Rennie does not think much of Africa as a place of residence as it is no "poor man's country," black labor being cheaply procured.

Of Boer treachery he has this to say: Three Strathconas were going to an inn to look for grub, and before they knew it seven Boers appeared around the corner of the hut. At first the Canadians were going to make them surrender, but decided that they were too many for them. The Boers opened fire and they had quite a little skirmish among themselves. One Canadian was killed, shot through the heart, another wounded through the arm, the third made good his escape, but not before losing two dead Boers on the field. When the news reached camp men were despatched to look up their comrades and were away longer than expected and Rennie was sent out to call them in, but the men were not done Boer hunting and he had to return alone.

He also tells of Corporal Nicholson, of Vernon, who was shot in the left cheek, the bullet coming out of his neck on the opposite side, just touching the jugular. He was helped off the field by Ingram, of Grand Prairie, and two weeks after he carried the body of poor Ingram off the battlefield, shot through the heart.

The reason why the British destroyed furniture was because when the Boers were coming from Natal they stole British furniture, etc., and when the British saw their furniture in Boer houses it was only right that they should destroy it.

The only instance in which a Strathcona used his revolver was when a trooper was going alone to an inn for something to eat. A young burgher came out and aiming his rifle at the trooper, asked him to surrender. The Canadian dropped his rifle and obeyed, but an older Boer told the lad to "shoot the coward any way." But the fellow waited too long, for the Strathcona drew his revolver and fatal consequences followed.

The voyage across was very rough, and the Lake Erie, the boat they came over on was four days overdue. Mr. Rennie saw King Edward and received a medal from him. Speaking of the King he said, "You would not know he was a king to see him, if you were not told so."

The Canadian horses stood the campaign better, and were more in demand than those from any other country, even the Argentines had to bow down to the cayuses of Canada.

Rev. E. D. McLaren, of Vancouver, delayed by the railway mishap yesterday for an hour, was a visitor on his return from a meeting of the Presbyterian Home Mission Committee at Toronto.

Some persons by reason of self assertion combined with stiff 34-inch neck lines are enabled to snuff the breeze with their noses pointing toward the zenith. Style is everything, if it does cut a throat.

Contractor Kelly for the Golden-Whidmeier telegraph line left yesterday with a gang of men to begin construction. Besides laborers, Mr. Kelly has employed Robert Dunn as expert lineman, also G. Kelly as electrician and operator. It is expected that telegraphic communication will be established before the first of July.

From an authentic source it is learned that a block of mica, 21 inches square, from the Tote Jeanne Cache mines was sold in Seattle for $2,000. There can be no further doubt as to the value of these mines, the one thing needed now is means of transport for the product. It is sincerely hoped that both the Dominion and Provincial governments will come to an arrangement whereby the preliminary work of survey and road building may be at once begun. There are valleys of good agricultural land along the route, therefore the Dominion government should aid in its development.

There is a suggestion abroad that Canada and Australia should be perpetuated in the nomenclature of the Royal princes.

RED LINE GROUP SOLD.

Last Payment Made—A Valuable Mining Proposition.
 It was known that negotiations were in progress for a long period for the purchase of the above group, but not until the 23rd ult. had the deal been advanced to its final stage. J. A. Harvey, of Fort Steele, solicitor for the bondholders, completed the arrangements to the satisfaction of all concerned, and it is hardly necessary to add, that the whole mining community of this district look upon the deal with an unusual degree of interest. It will add a zest to mining operations and encourage the efforts of prospectors in further discoveries. The Red Line is but an instance of what may be accomplished by persistent effort in the development of mines in Kootenay, and it is to be hoped other deals will rapidly follow in the wake of this and thus make known to capitalists the enormous wealth hidden in this district.

The amount paid for this group is in the neighborhood of $40,000, and it is owing to the untiring efforts of Messrs. Collett and Starbird, who secured a bond on the property in 1899, that this goodly sum was realized on behalf of the original owners, Messrs. Abel, Larsen, Scott, Watt and Taynton. It is understood New York capitalists have financed the scheme and that it is their intention to proceed with important development works at once. There is no doubt but that the group will prove a good investment and a dividend payer from the start.

The Horse Thief road will now be built as the sale and development of the Red Line will necessitate the building of the road, the Government's action in the matter being contingent on the disposal and working of the mines.

The Red Line group is situated on McDonald creek, a branch of Horse Thief creek, Windermere division, and in future will be known as the McDonald mines.

THE LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

Nine railway chapters are being asked for in the House. B. C. is good meat for the charter mongers. But it is evident that the Government are drawing clearer bargains now than ever before. The Government have advertised for tenders for building the Coast Kootenay railway, but under such conditions as to be heart breaking to aspirants.

The bill granting a charter to the Crow's Nest Southern railway has passed the committee stage.

Mr. Phillips' bill for the better protection of the baby fraternity was before the house on Saturday. Mr. McPhillips' bill only went so far as to embrace twins. Mr. Turner wanted to know why triplets didn't come within the scope of the measure. Mr. Kidd rose to ask the Finance Minister what interest he had in triplets. But Mr. Garden remarked that the question of the member for Richmond fittingly came from a Kidd. Whereupon everybody had a smile.

Harry Helmcken, after citing a number of "whereases," introduced the following resolution, which will receive the earnest "amen" of B.C. politicians: "Therefore, be it resolved, that this house, being of the opinion that the establishment of a lead refinery in an accessible position in the province of British Columbia is the surest and best way of fostering and encouraging the lead mining industry of British Columbia, and that a bounty for five years of $5 per pig lead, the product from ores mined, smelted and refined in British Columbia, would be of great assistance to establish this new industry, would respectfully request the Government to respectfully request the Government to this province to take this matter into their serious consideration."

"Be it further resolved, that if a bounty be granted, the provincial government should retain the power of interfering in case more than fair and profitable rates were charged."

Rome was Wrong.
 Montreal, Que., March 30.—Mr. Justice Archibald this morning gave his judgment in the famous Deloit marriage case, which in effect declares that the court of Rome has no right to declare null and void marriages contracted between two Roman Catholics when performed by a Protestant clergyman. Justice Archibald's decision declares that the Deloit marriage was legal and binding, and that the laws of Quebec do not specify as to what religion a clergyman must belong in order to perform marriages between two Roman Catholics.

The case will likely go to the privy council, London, on appeal.

THE DEADLY KISS.
 A scientist has discovered that it is dangerous to kiss without first washing the mouth and lips with an antiseptic remedy. Upon every lip lurks bacteria awaiting an opportunity to switch its location. Look not upon the lips when they are cherry red in the moonlight, for in the end the microbes will sting you, and the bacterium will bite you into an early demise. Science is wonderful. It reveals many unknown dangers that we have dallied with in the past, only escaping the terrors of bacteria by a element of luck. While science has revealed the great danger, and provided a remedy, it has also increased mental anxiety. Suppose a girl with ripe bacterian lips should suddenly grasp a man and kiss him before he could flood his mouth with antiseptics what agony he would endure waiting for the bacteria to develop and carry him beyond the clouds. It is simply awful to contemplate the chances we run every day, and a man to be reasonably safe should be a clerk in the store of a man who does not advertise. Bacteria is never swapped when a man is alone.—New Denver Judge.

AN AWFUL DEED.

TERRIBLE CRIME OF AN INSANE PARENT.

Emil Segerlin, of Devil's Lake, Murders His Three Daughters in a Barn.

St. Paul, March 31.—Emil Segerlin, a well to do farmer, living eight miles northeast of Devil's Lake, N. D., on Friday last, killed his three children and then stabbed himself to death. He went to the barn, accompanied by his little daughters, Della, aged seven, and Lilly, aged five. As he did not come to dinner his eldest daughter Esther, aged nine, was sent to call him.

It is thought before she reached the barn her father had killed Della and Lilly and immediately killed her. Esther was a strong girl and evidently offered resistance, as she was stabbed in several places and horribly mutilated. Both the other children were killed with a knife. The mother had been an invalid and had scarcely left her room for eight years. Segerlin was sent to the insane asylum ten years ago. He was soon allowed to return home apparently fully recovered. He was a hard working man, bore a good reputation, and was in an excellent financial condition. There is no question that he was insane when he committed the deed.

A MADMAN AMUCK.

Brussels, March 31.—A frightful tragedy is reported from Luxembourg. A madman ran amuck in the crowded streets, and dashed among some children, striking them down on every side, and crying out as he had come to save them from the pain of living. Before his awful case was brought to an end he killed seven children and wounded many more. The father of one of the victims, made desperate by the sight of his dying child, faced the insane murderer and shot him down. The whole place is mourning over the awful crime.

DEATH IN THE TUNNEL.

Seattle, Wash., March 31.—The first serious accident in the new Great Northern tunnels at Cascade, which was opened for traffic about three months ago, took place Monday afternoon, and resulted in the death of Engineer W. W. Eradley from suffocation from the poisonous gases in the tunnel. His fireman, Joseph W. Smith was overcome, but recovered. Four other trainmen were overcome, but recovered soon after getting in the open air. The train, which was east bound, became stalled in the middle of the tunnel. The fumes of the engine filled the place, and the men were forced to leave the train and lie on the floor of the tunnel for safety. When the train failed to appear at the far end of the tunnel the watchers there feared that something had happened and started in with a relief engine. The body of the dead engineer was found face down in a ditch at the side of the track. The other men were found on the track. The rescuers had a hard time getting to the scene owing to smoke and gas. All the men rescued were taken to the hospital at Everett, and are almost recovered.

DEVoured BY WOLVES.

Portage la Prairie, Man., March 30.—A rumor reached here last night to the effect that the body of John Sutton, who disappeared from the Wallwood district near Carberry over a week ago, had been found Wednesday night near the settlement known as Bear Creek, which lies in an out of the way section, 17 miles south of Gladstone.

According to the report, the remains were horribly mutilated, and had apparently been devoured by wolves. Up to the present no authentic report of the information has been received.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

St. Petersburg, March 31.—Reports come from the hospitals that nineteen students have died from injuries received in the recent riots, mainly the result of wounds inflicted by the leaden bullets, which the Cossacks are said to have put on their whips. The students themselves report two deaths.

Montreal, March 31.—Lieut. Colonel Dent, British army remount officer, arrived here from Liverpool on Friday. He states that he will purchase a thousand horses at once and ship them either from Portland or Boston to South Africa, after which he will proceed to the Northwest. He says he will establish the imperial authorities to establish remount depots in Canada.

A widow says good husbands are like dough because women knead them. Peace negotiations in South Africa is causing the chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, to consider the expediency of abandoning the suggestion of a shilling registration duty on corn in favor of a two-shilling direct duty.

Queenstown, Cape Colony, March 26.—The town guard here has been called out owing to a report that a force of Boers is near the town. Business has been shut down in order to allow the employees to man the trenches and fight day and night. The Boers, said to be 20 miles off, are alleged to have crossed the railroad near Drummond.

Buffalo, March 25.—The new post-office was dedicated yesterday afternoon with appropriate ceremonies. Hon. Charles Emery Smith, the postmaster-general was the guest of honor and delivered the address. Work was begun September, 1894. The structure is of Gothic architecture, 230 feet front by 260 in depth. It was completed within the amount appropriated, $3,000,000.

Buffalo's new $2,000,000 post-office was dedicated by the postmaster-general.

MANITOBA LEGISLATURE.

Winnipeg, March 30.—The business of the last sitting of legislature for the session of 1901 was transacted in less than half an hour yesterday afternoon. The speaker took the chair at 4 o'clock. After a small amount of necessary business had been transacted the lieutenant-governor entered and read his prorogation speech.

Winnipeg, March 28.—An hour sufficed to transact the business on the order paper at yesterday afternoon's session of the legislature. The seventh report of the committee on law amendments and the sixth report of the committee on standing orders were presented and adopted.

The Manitoba Gaols act, the act to legalize by-law No. 6 of the school district of Douglas, the bill to amend the Horse Breeders' act, and the bill to enable the government to lend limited sums of money to municipalities for seed grain purposes, passed their third readings. The house adjourned at 4.15.

Winnipeg, March 26.—The sitting of the legislature yesterday was of a formal business nature. Several bills were considered in committee of the whole, and a number of motions for first, second and third readings were passed.

Mr. Johnson moved the second reading of a bill respecting the insurance. He urged that the province should provide a fund to compensate growers of grain for loss by hail, on the ground that the province derives on the average $20,000,000 from grain. It was estimated that last year 100,000 acres were hailed out. Estimating the average yield at 17 1/2 bushels per acre, this meant a loss of $550,000. The bill proposed that 3 cents per acre be levied on 100,000 acres, this to be levied by the municipal commissioners on the municipalities after equalizing the assessment, and the municipalities to collect the amounts and remit to the municipal commissioner before the 15th of December and before the 1st of March. It was proposed that only the total loss be paid.

The bill was read a second time. Hereafter the house will hold two sessions each day. The house adjourned at 5.30.

Winnipeg, March 27.—The most important measure introduced in the legislature yesterday was that of Hon. Mr. Rogers with reference to granting aid to certain railways.

This was an act to transfer the aid which was granted under section 1 of chapter 43 of the Statutes of Manitoba to the municipalities to lines of railways outside the province to lines to be constructed in the province during the coming year. In 1898 the government granted aid to assist the construction of a line of railway from a point north of Sifton station to a point on the south bank of the Saskatchewan river by guaranteeing the principal and interest of first mortgage bonds to the amount of $8,000 per mile. The legislation introduced will enable the government to transfer this aid to 110 miles of railway to be constructed in the province. This will enable the government to build this amount of railroad without increasing the liability of the province.

The evening sitting was occupied principally with routine business. Several measures were considered in committee of the whole house and given a third reading. There was a good attendance of members on both sides of the house and a large amount of business was transacted.

Winnipeg, March 28.—The house held two separate sittings yesterday of an hour and forty-five minutes in the afternoon and an hour and a half in the evening. Despite the efforts to terminate the business of the house the indications are that the house will not prorogue this week.

Mr. Ferguson moved a resolution memorializing the government on the advisability of removing the duty on farm implements.

The reports of the select standing committees on private bills and public accounts were presented and adopted by the house. In the absence of the premier, Mr. Campbell gave notice of a resolution inviting Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of York and Cornwall, on their visit to Canada, to traverse the country from east to west, and assuring them of the ardent loyalty of the west.

HIS SIGHT RESTORED.

Baltimore, March 24.—Valentine Botz, of Buffalo, N. Y., has had his sight restored to him as a result of a surgical operation performed in this city after having been totally blind for 28 years. Mr. Botz is 82 years old and has been blind since four years of age from the effects of smallpox, which left him with spots on his eyeball. He was operated on by Prof. A. Douglas McConachie. A delicate incision was made behind the eyeball and a piece of caudal fish removed. Instantly light flashed into the ball, and Mr. Botz saw his deliverer, the first person he had beheld for 28 years.

Winnipeg, March 26.—Ex-Ald. Donald A. Ross on Saturday evening received a telegram from Toronto notifying him of the death of his brother, Arthur Wellington Ross, who, in its early history of Winnipeg was one of its most prominent citizens. Deceased suffered a stroke of paralysis while in British Columbia about two months ago. He was taken to Toronto for treatment, and a second stroke followed last week from which he never rallied. The interment took place today.

GENERAL STRIKE ORDERED.

Marseilles, March 23.—The council of the labor union and the labor exchange have decided in favor of a general strike, and have issued an invitation to all unions to cease work in support of the striking dock laborers. The harbor watchmen, the soapmakers and the street car employees have resolved to strike unless the claims of the dock laborers are considered. Two thousand soldiers have gone to assist the authorities in the suppression of the troubles incident upon the strike at Marseilles.

DEWET CAPTURED

ANOTHER REPORT THAT HE IS IN CAPTIVITY.

The Enemy Has Joined Forces and is Now Moving Towards Orange River.

Portsmouth, England, March 29.—The Evening News of this city publishes a statement to the effect that General De Wet has been captured.

Cape Town, March 29.—Commandant Kritzinger, Commandant Schoepfer and Commandant Van Beenan have joined forces, and the Boer commandos, 1,000 strong, are now moving in the direction of the Orange river via Vreterstad.

London, March 29.—A dispatch from Lord Kitchener says: Our casualties in Gen. Babington's action were two killed and seven wounded. The Boers left 23 dead and 30 wounded. As their pursuit was rapid many more Boer casualties are likely.

The operations of March 28 drove the enemy north from their positions at Kaffir's Kraal. On March 24 the pursuit was continued by mounted men only. The enemy's rear guard was driven in by a combined movement on both flanks. Their convoy was then sighted at Leenfontein. The Greys, New Zealanders and Bushmen pushed on. The enemy attempted to take up a position, but the Greys and other troops rode down all opposition and gave them no chance. The convoy was ridden into and the enemy's retreat became a rout. The pursuit was continued until the horses were exhausted.

Cape Town, March 29.—The British inflicted a repulse March 20 on the commandos of Gen. Malan and Commandant Schoepfer on Sunday river. The Boers fled, having lost sixteen killed.

London, March 28.—In the house of commons today Mr. Joseph Chamberlain announced that the government had no intention of superseding Mr. Alfred Milner as governor of Transvaal and Orange River Colony.

Mr. Balfour, the government leader, in response to a question put by Sir Robert Field (Liberal) announced that the government's refusal to permit Messrs. Merfman and Sauer to re-occupy the house against the establishment of a crown colony form of government in South Africa.

Mr. Chamberlain replied that to offer better terms would not be of general benefit to the country. The government could not afford to show again that it paid better to be a rebel than a loyalist. The Cape rebels as a rule had been worse than the Boers.

Mr. Broderick, the war secretary, announced that the war office had fulfilled its engagement, given Feb. 7, to send thirty thousand mounted reinforcements to Gen. Kitchener, 2,500 men having been dispatched, while 6,000 men were awaiting transportation.

MURDERED IN A BOX CAR.

St. Paul, March 29.—The two men that murdered Abel Anderson in a box car near Merrifield, N. D., Thursday were captured this morning in Grand Forks. They are brothers, Joseph and Jacob Basanalis, aged 18 and 23 years, respectively. They have confessed. Joe says Anderson, whom they killed, held them up and robbed them of $300 at Tenstrike, Minn., a few days ago. They said they met Anderson but he demurred, and one held him while the other went through his pockets and took $45. Anderson had hold of Jacob and would not release him and Joe shot him in the leg, as he says.

MR. MULLOCK IN LONDON.

London, March 29.—Mr. Mullock, Canadian postmaster-general, gave evidence yesterday before the inter-departmental cable committee. His proceedings were private, but it is understood Mr. Mullock favored an expansion of the state owned cable system by the construction of a government cable between Canada and Great Britain; also the acquisition of a line from Australia via Singapore and Hong Kong. The latter extension would be of the greatest possible advantage to Canada, as thereby Canada would, via the Pacific cable, be in direct communication with China and Japan, to the great advantage of Canadians seeking trade development in the Orient.

SENTENCED FOR MURDER.

Peterboro, Ont., March 29.—Justice Lount yesterday sentenced Alexander Sharpe, who was charged with the murder of Wm. Hull, of Belmont, his nephew, Feb. 20, to fifteen years' imprisonment. The jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter last night. The trouble arose over a woman. The prisoner married a woman, who had been previously living with his nephew, and some time after their marriage she returned to the nephew. After trying to get the woman to return, Sharpe one day drove up to Hull's house with a Winchester and shot Hull dead.

Cape Town, March 25.—Boer raiders in the eastern part of Cape Colony, with the exception of almost all skirmishes, are keeping out of reach of the British. Colonel Scoville engaged Commandants Fouché and Malan near Blaauwkrantz on March 20. Three British were killed and four wounded. Four Boers were killed. The number of Boer wounded was not ascertained.

Bloomfontein, March 25.—Heavy fighting is reported going on at Thaba N'Chu, between Fourie's commando of Boers and a strong force of British.

Military operations in the south-eastern part of Orange River colony are progressing. Major Julius Byng brought in 800 refugees from Wagoner and Smithfield districts. Colonel Bethune sent in 17 prisoners from Thaba N'Chu. Three hundred prisoners are now camped here.

Take away women—and men would follow.

Catarah for Twenty Years and Cured in a Few Days—Hon. George James, of Scranton, Pa., says: "I have been a martyr to Catarah for 20 years, constant hawking, dropping in the throat, pain in the head, very offensive breath. I tried Dr. Agnew's Catarah Powder. The first application gave instant relief. After using a few bottles I was cured. 50 cents. Sold by C. A. Warren.—1.

LOOTING THE CARGO.

St. John's, Nfld., March 21.—The French barquette Aquitaine, from Bayonne, for St. Pierre, with a cargo of wines, spirits and general fishery supplies for the French bank fishing fleet, is ashore of Cape La Hune, on the south coast of Newfoundland, 23 miles east of Burgeo. Her crew escaped. The ship is badly damaged and the coast folk are looting her. Customs officials are being hurried to the scene. The cargo is unusually valuable and exciting times are expected in the endeavor to recover salvage.

Two Years Aged.

For eight years I suffered as no one ever did with rheumatism; for two years I lay in bed; could not so much as feed myself. A friend recommended South American Rheumatic Cure. After three doses I could sit up. Today I am as strong as ever I was.—Mrs. John Cook, 287 Clinton street, Toronto. Sold by C. A. Warren.—2

Dublin, March 25.—Earl Cadogan, lord lieutenant of Ireland authorizes the statement that he will retain office for another year.

"Thought it Meant Death Sure."—Mrs. James McKim of Dunville, Ont., says of her almost miraculous cure from heart disease by Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart: "Until I began taking this remedy I despaired of my life. I had heart failure and extreme prostration. One dose gave me quick relief and one bottle cured me. The sufferings of years were dispelled like magic."—3. Sold by C. A. Warren.

Tien Tsin, March 25.—The Rev. J. J. Stonehouse, of the London Missionary society, has been murdered by brigands 14 miles east of Tien Tsin.

A modern weapon in the battle for health.—If disease has taken your citadel of health, the stomach, and is torturing you with indigestion, dyspepsia and nervous prostration, South American Nerve is the weapon to drive the enemy from his stronghold "at the point of the bayonet," trench by trench, but swift and sure, it always wins.—4. Sold by C. A. Warren.

London, March 24.—Postmaster-General Mullock, of Canada, interviewed Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain at the colonial office on Friday afternoon. Mr. Mullock has been invited by Mr. Balfour, of Durligh, to appear before the inter-departmental committee on the cable system to the empire on Tuesday next. He will in consequence defer his departure until Wednesday, joining the Himalayas at Marseilles.

Pill Sense.—It stands to reason that Dr. Agnew's Little Liver Pills will crowd out of the market many of the nauseous old-timers. A better medicine at less than half the price is all the argument needed to keep the demand what it has been—phenomenal—40 doses 10 cents. They cure Sick Headache, Biliousness, and all stomach irritations.—5. Sold by C. A. Warren.

ANOTHER LINE TO WINNIPEG.

St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—Mr. J. Hall, formerly with the Northern Pacific engineering force operating from Grand Forks, is now working for the road in Northern Minnesota. He writes he is now helping to survey a route from Winnipeg to Bemidji. The Northern Pacific bought the Brainerd and Northern last year and it has been the general impression the road would be extended north for some time.

The party left Bemidji several weeks ago, and is now ninety-eight miles north of that place. The camp outfit and supplies have been hauled by teams, but in the swampy country which now has been reached the horses must be abandoned and the outfit packed and taken in skiffs. The proposed extension will shorten the distance between Bemidji and Winnipeg some 200 miles. It is generally believed the Northern Pacific will not build clear through to Winnipeg but will connect with the Mackinac and Manx road at some point near the boundary.

—THAT—

LOSSING GAL.

BY T. O. DEAN.

It was some hours afterwards before Elisabeth knew that she had been thrown and badly injured. The steward was twisting above her when she recovered consciousness, and realized what had happened. There was a dull pain in her head as well as a sharp pain in her left foot, and when she tried to move she could not do so. After thinking for a moment or two and realizing that she was severely injured and perfectly helpless, she decided to call for help, and call she did, her cry echoing far through the still woods. After calling for some time, she began to understand how unlikely it was that her call would be heard. She might be far from any habitation, and if not, it might be so late that all humanity in this section was asleep, and could not be awakened except by a loud cry near by.

Ah! What was that? Yes, she was sure that was an answering "Hello" to her cry of "Help, help!" She called again, and this time the answer was more distinct, after which it was not long before the owner of the answering voice was by her side, she saw that it was her own manager. She explained what had happened, as he bent over her with a miner's lantern in his hand, after which she asked him to raise her up that she might test the extent of her injuries and see if she could stand. No, she could not stand, her side pained her immensely, and her left foot was either broken or badly sprained.

"Let us think for a moment and decide what is best to be done," said Valdefield; then, after a short pause, he continued: "Would it suit you if I carried you to my own cabin, some few hundred yards from here? There I could saddle my own pony and take you there to your friends?"

They thought of other things to do but after many other suggestions by both, this at length appeared to them as being the best move to make. So, lifting her in his strong arms once more, this time more tenderly than when he had assisted her over the stream, he soon traversed the intervening distance, and anon placed her on a sofa in his own "best room." Then he went and saddled his own horse, with the intention of conveying her on his back over to her friends. Upon returning to her however, he found that she had fainted. Using water as a restorative, he, after little time, brought her back to her senses. Her side gave her much agony, and it soon became evident to both that she could not endure a journey of any kind that night.

"There is a doctor at 'Darrie's,' he said, to console her. "The night is now far spent, and I can have him here shortly after daylight. He will then know what is best to be done. Go! It is thought none of them will die."

Dr. Young, on a chair, he continued chatting with her as the night passed, each moment finding her much easier, and in less pain. While she talked to him she had time to cast her eyes about the room. Even in the dim light she could see in the apartment evidences of refinement, and in some sense it put her in mind of her father's "teaching room" in New York City, only it had not the post mortem traditions to her that always seemed to cling to her father's "musical room."

Valdefield's "best room" was scrupulously clean, a carpet was on the floor, and there were some water color paintings on the wall, while on an easel in a corner there rested an unfinished oil painting, with pigments and brushes near by. She felt instinctively certain that the man who occupied this domain was a gentleman by birth and cultivation, though how he came to be a miner was to her yet a mystery. Towards daylight she fell into a peaceful slumber, and awoke much refreshed after the sun had risen.

The doctor found besides a sprained foot, a splintered rib, that had slightly injured the heart; and he absolutely forbade his patient to be moved for at least a week. Then Elisabeth wrote a letter to Elsie explaining her untoward absence, and the doctor delivered it in his way by talking "the town" as he laughingly termed it. The Godfreys had been searching for Elisabeth all night, and the letter to Elsie was read with such relief, the doctor as urging them that she was perfectly comfortable and in no danger. Elsie explained in a letter, at once sent back to Elisabeth, that as the Eagle Bill and Sure Footed Colt were hostile claims, it would be quite impossible for her to go to her cousin, but they would receive the doctor's report daily, and send for her just as soon as she was able to be moved.

For the next few days Elisabeth remained in bed, her condition gradually improving as a result of the doctor's care. She did not feel ill, but felt in that dreamy state of weakness, which comes

THE ABILITY OF DR. CHASE

In this practical age a physician's ability is measured by the actual cures he makes. Judged by this high standard, Dr. Chase stands pre-eminent as a giant among physicians. His kidney and liver druggings, for example, Dr. Chase, by means of his Kidney-Liver Pills, has brought about some of the most surprising cures ever effected. This is due to the direct and specific action of his great home treatment on the liver and kidneys. Here is the experience of a highly respected resident of Cooscooc, Ont.:
"Mr. James Dellihunt, Cooscooc, Ontario, writes: 'After several years I suffered greatly with a kind of kidney and liver trouble, which was the result of Bright's disease of the kidneys. The pains were sometimes almost beyond endurance and extended from my head and between the shoulders down the whole spinal column and seemed to concentrate across my kidneys. My back was never entirely free from pain. When I got up in the morning I could not straighten myself at all, and would go best nearly double most all day. My water was cloudy and at other times profuse, and it gave me great pain to urinate. I could do no work, and though I tried many kinds of kidney pills, could get no relief. As a last resort I was induced by a friend to give Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills a trial. I felt a change after the first dose. I used all about five boxes, and they have entirely cured me. I have no pains now and can do as good a day's work as I ever could. It is a pleasure for me to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, as they have done so much for me.'"
"Mr. J. J. Ward, J. P., Cooscooc, certifies that he has known Mr. Dellihunt for years as a truthful man and respected citizen, and vouches for the truth of the above statement."
"You cannot possibly obtain a more beneficial treatment for the kidneys and liver than Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. It has stood the test of time and has proven beyond dispute its right to the title of 'the world's greatest kidney medicine.' One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all druggists, or Hildemann, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Had's Sister Knew a Thing or Two About Men.

"Oh, I know all about that, Bud! You can talk about not marrying the best woman you ever saw and about the delightful freedom of bachelorhood, and you can pretend enuol, and you can pose as a hater of our sex, but I know all about it."

"So?" "What a feminine little Solomon you are!"

"Shut up! Wise women don't have to be like Solomon to be a whole lot wiser than he ever was. You pretend indifference because the girls are so indifferent to you. That's what is the matter, and I know it. You couldn't make any headway with them, so you put on a bold front and superior airs. I know several of them that you're not fooling, and it only makes you ridiculous."

Bud was boiling, but tried with an absurd effort to look pleasant.

"Is that so?" And there was a sizzling note in his voice. "Would you condescend to name the girl outside of yourself who is the most skeptical as to my sincerity? What! Kit Jones, your special chum? That girl fairly courted me. "Fairly courted you? She took the only plan she could think of to keep you away. She would die an old maid if you and she were the last two people on earth."

"Well, see," he snapped.

And they did see. Level headed Miss Jones led Bud a weary chase. She told him his faults, changed the subject every time he showed serious symptoms, plainly indicated that she was a nuisance and when she did really accept his suit declared it was the only way to get rid of him. Then she and her prospective sister-in-law got together in each other's arms and plotted over the success of their conspiracy to knock Bud off his hobby.

Prose Versus Poetry.

"There," said the hopeful young man as he placed his contribution on the editor's desk, "I wrote that poem with a pen the handle of which was made from a picket that was torn from the fence in front of a house in which Edgar Allan Poe once lived."

"Oh," replied the editor, after he had read the verses. Then he lifted up one foot and pointed to it, said:

"Do you see that shoe? The leather of which it is made was tanned with bark a part of which may once have grown upon a tree that gave shelter to the heavy-weight that struck Billy Patterson."

The young man took his manuscript and, having bestowed upon the base bed before him a look of scorn mingled with pity, went out.

Dear Sirs,—This is to certify that I have been troubled with a lame back for fifteen years.

I have used three bottles of your MINARD'S LINIMENT and am completely cured.

It gives me great pleasure to recommend it and you are at liberty to use this in any way to further the use of your valuable medicine.

HER HISTORY.

It Wasn't Just What the Clerks Expected.

It was 5 o'clock, and in the big tea-house the office force was very busy indeed. The typewriter clicked rapidly, and the heavy pens scratched over the thick leaves.

In the height of the rush a woman entered the office. She carried a fox muff, and a graceful automobile reached to her feet.

"A stunner!" breathed several of the office force, and then the young man nearest left his stool and said:

"What can I do for you, miss?" She seemed a bit confused.

"I have a great secret," she whispered, but somehow every clerk heard.

"Yes," she continued; "I am a woman with a history."

"After this you could not have paid those clerks to return to their stools. "Are you interested?" she asked.

"Interested?" roared the tall pen scratcher. "Why, a statue would be interested in your history."

"And you will not discourage me?" "Never! Do not fear to tell us all. Now for your history."

She drew a fat volume from the folds of her automobile.

"Here it is; a complete history of the Beer war to date; 2,000 pages, 500"—In confusion the office force retreated.

"Run, woman, run!" shouted the clerk.

"What is it?" she gasped.

"The great water tank on the roof has burst!"

With a long shriek she rushed down to the street.

"When they spring those gags, you have to take herole means," grinned the tall pen scratcher. "Women's histories ain't what they are cracked up to be."

ADELINI PATTI.

How the Diva Astonished All But Her Intimate Friends.

Since the sale of Craigy-nos castle has become public property there has been no end of speculation as to Adeline Patti's future home. Mindful of the diva's love for Italian skies and balmy breezes, many supposed she would purchase a handsome chateau which has been offered her near Naples; others suggested Nice and Paris. But Patti has done what she so dearly loves to do; she has given them the slip and astonished all but her intimate friends by announcing her intention to make London her winter and Sweden her summer headquarters. For over twenty years Patti has been the chateleine of Craigy-nos, a charming old property which she discovered during a picnic excursion to Swansea Valley. She immediately purchased it at a moderate figure, and during the last years of her residency has, by her exquisite taste and the expenditure of over $850,000, transformed it into one of the finest castles in Great Britain. The theatre excels anything of the kind in Europe, not excepting those of royal homes.

Naturally the fair Adeline's return to London will be greeted with delight, for in social circles she is a great favorite. If she is accused of economy where her singing voice is concerned, not so with her speaking voice. She is a brilliant conversationalist, placing no restraint whatever on her vivacious spirits. She serves up the present and past in a delightful fashion, and never laughs more merrily than when the random mention of a date inadvertently betrays her years.

Coddling Children.

Why is it, asks Medical Talk, that people that are most exposed to cold by outdoor employment are the people who are least subject to colds? Simply because, it answers, no one catches cold by exposing the whole body to cold. Those people catch cold who try to coddle themselves away from cold. A person catches cold when a portion of the body is exposed to cold, while the other portion is kept warm by artificial heat. One is more apt to catch cold sitting by a stove in an unventilated room than by facing a blizzard in the open air.

Nansen and his men, when in the Arctic regions, were exposed to cold of every description, and it is stated that they never once suffered from colds. But no sooner had they returned to their native land than they one and all caught severe colds. The reason for this is probably because they were again warmly housed and spent a portion of their time in unventilated rooms, sleeping in stuffy bedrooms.

The more children are coddled to keep them from catching cold the more apt they are to catch cold. The proper course to take is to clothe the children warmly, provide good, stout shoes, and turn them loose in the open air. Let them go, rain or shine, cold or warm; let them have the open air every day. Such children are far less liable to catch cold. And their bedroom window should be open every night, winter and summer, in such a way as to avoid a direct draught upon them while they are sleeping.

The Captive Thrush.

An Edinburgh paper says that one day a Lochaber lad caught a thrush and took it home. No cage was to be had, so the bird was placed in a basket with a lid. The boy's mother having told the Rev. Dr. Stewart of the capture, the minister—a naturalist well-known throughout the Western Highlands of Scotland—came to see the bird. Whilst they were all talking about the prisoner the lad spied a smaller bird on an elder-bush, and Dr. Stewart at once noted that it was the captive's mate. He persuaded the boy to put the basket outside. This was done, and by-and-by the male bird flew down and began caressing the prisoner in many pretty ways. Then he attacked the basket lid furiously, hoping to peck a hole in it big enough for his consort to escape by. This so touched the boy's mother, and even the boy, that the latter agreed to let the captive go. Taking the basket back to the spot where the thrush had been caught, the lid was opened and the bird flew off with a wild scream of delight, its mate joining it in the wood—both thrushes, no doubt, happier far than kings.

An Indian Woman's View.

An Indian woman at the Educational Conference said: "We in India, are dwarfed in mind and body because of the things to which we have been subjected for centuries. When I was a child I did many things which were wrong, because I know no better, and I only learned that they were wrong when I was taught in your mission schools. You have done much for us, but you can never send enough workers to minister to the great needs of our people, and the only effective method of reaching them is to educate us and we will educate our fellows. Give us the same education that you give your own missionaries and we will not disappoint you."

SUFFERING WOMEN.

A MESSAGE OF HOPE TO THE WEAK AND DEPRESSED.

A Grateful Woman Tells of Her Release From the Agonies That Afflict Her Sex After Three Doctors Had Failed to Help Her.

The amount of suffering borne by women throughout the country can never be estimated. Silently, almost hopelessly, they endure from day to day afflictions that can only fall to the lot of women. The following story of the suffering and release of Mrs. Charles Hoeg, of Southampton, N.S., ought to bring hope and health and happiness to other sufferers. Mrs. Hoeg says: "For nine out of the thirty-two years of my life I have suffered as no woman, unless she has been similarly afflicted, can imagine I could suffer and yet have lived. Three weeks out of four I would be unable to move about and, indeed, at no time was really fit to attend to my household duties. I consulted physicians—Three of the most skillful doctors in the county of Cumberland at different times had charge of my case. These all agreed in their diagnosis, but the treatment varied; and while at times I would experience some relief, at no time was there any hope given me of a permanent cure. Many a night when I went to bed I would have been glad if death had come before morning. I never had much faith in proprietary medicines, but at one time I took a half dozen bottles of a blood-making compound that was highly recommended. This, like everything else, failed to help me. There seemed to be not a particle of blood in my body. My face was absolutely colorless, and my appetite almost entirely deserted me. I often saw in the newspapers letters testifying to the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but nine years of suffering and discouragement had made me too sceptical to see any hope of relief when doctors had failed to effect a cure. But at last I came across the story of a cure near home—that of Mr. Moses Boes, of Rodney. I knew that at one time he had been regarded as a hopeless consumptive, and his cure through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills determined me to try them. I had not taken two boxes before I began to feel better, and grew confident of a cure. I kept on taking the pills, all the time feeling new blood in my veins, activity returning to my limbs, and the feeling of depression gradually wearing away. To many women it may seem incredible that the mere making of new blood in my veins could restore to a healthy condition misplaced internal organs, but this has been my happy experience. My pains have all left me, and I am now as healthy a woman as there is in this place. This health I owe to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which have rescued me from a life of suffering, if not from the grave."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially valuable to women. They build up the blood, restore the nerves, and create those troubles which make the lives of so many women, old and young, a burden. Palpitation of the heart, nervous headache, and nervous prostration speedily yield to this wonderful medicine. These pills are sold only in boxes, the trade mark and wrapper printed in red ink, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Red For the Business.

"Yes, I had to let him go," replied the boss barber to the regular customer when the latter asked an explanation of the absence of his pet barber.

"Why?"

"Well, he insisted on raising whiskers."

"Raising whiskers? Great Scott! Isn't this a free country, where a man may raise whiskers if he so chooses?"

"Yes, this is a free country, and a man can do pretty much as he likes, but there's one thing he can't do and work for me, and that's it."

"Why do you object?"

"For three reasons. The first is that he was a rather cross looking fellow anyway. Whiskers would make him look crosser. In the second place, to raise whiskers it would be necessary for him to look like a Weary Willie for two or three weeks. In the third place—and this is reason enough, even if there were no other—if he should succeed in raising a good looking beard, he would set an example that might be followed by some customers. The result would be that instead of getting shaved three or four times a week, or even every day, they would content themselves with getting their whiskers trimmed once a fortnight or once a week. Such a move would seriously affect the cash box and for that reason is not to be tolerated."

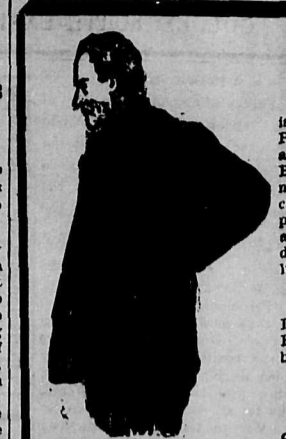

"How many barbers have you seen wearing beards? Every barber realizes the force of my objection. Oh, yes, every man has constitutional rights that all should observe. So have I."—St. Louis Star.

Thomas Jefferson as a Letter Writer.

Mr. Jefferson probably wrote more letters with his own hand than any other public man that ever lived. The extent of his correspondence may be inferred from the fact that 20,000 letters, neatly folded and briefed, were preserved by him and found carefully filed away at the time of his death, with copies of the replies sent to more than 10,000. Those, however, were only a small portion of his correspondence, as he retained only those he considered of future usefulness or importance.

Stenography was not invented at that time. Every one of his letters was written with his own hand and with great care, although after breaking his wrist while minister to France it became a great labor to him. His penmanship was small, plain and legible, every letter being perfectly formed, and his account books are kept in so small a hand that many of the pages cannot be read without a magnifying glass.

Jefferson was an autodidact. He could write equally well with either hand. When his wrist was broken, he learned to write with his left hand, which became as skillful as the other. It would have been impossible for him to have carried on his extensive correspondence without being able to relieve his right hand at intervals.

Three of a Kind.

The joiner and the plumber and the coalman sat apart; No glad or joyous sentiment was found in either's heart; The coalman and the plumber sighed some sighs both long and deep, And then the joiner hung his head and soon began to weep.

The weather is so warm and mild so pipe is ever frozen."

The coalman said: "That's my complaint. The weather is so bland That coal is a commodity which is not in demand."

The joiner wept, he sobbed aloud. The others then inquired:

"Why do you weep? What sadness has these bitter tears inspired? You had your chance last summer, when the days were here and hot; We waited for the winter, but the winter cometh not."

The joiner raised his tearful face and roughly then inquired:

"'Tis true you have your troubles, but I'm the unhappy man. The ice has not begun to freeze, and, oh, I sadly fear I'll have to raise the prices very high the coming year."

The plumber and the coalman then gave him a scornful stare; It might be impolite to say they were inclined to swear, But slowly and with dignity they took themselves away, While through the joiner's brain tears a smile began to play. —Baltimore American.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

A Large Meeting to Consider Proper School Accommodation and Site. Pursuant to notice signed by the school trustees a meeting was held on Friday evening last to consider the matter of increased school accommodation for the Golden school district. Capt. Armstrong was elected to the chair and Thos. O'Brien was appointed secretary. The chairman read the notice convening the meeting and explained the necessity of further provision being made for the accommodation of scholars, after which he invited discussion on the subject. The debate which followed was not without acrimony and in some instances, was altogether irrelevant to the subject to be considered. Evidently, the matter of location of the school was the target of all the discursive fusillade but the majority with which the resolutions relative to site were passed, left no doubt as to unanimity on that point. Mr. C. H. Parson presented the following correspondence and petition which was read:

Dear Sir,—I have the honor by direction to enclose herewith petition for a suitable building for school purposes. In view of the facts already mentioned in said petition, you will readily see that it is of the greatest importance that the request should be granted.

The junior class, which is already located in a butcher's shop, separated by only a board partition, will, in my opinion, be a most unhealthy place for children to be, and are liable to be exposed to all kinds of sickness during the warm weather. Already at present the odor from fish and meat is a serious objection in the school room, and I cannot sufficiently impress on you the necessity of having a new school started at once.

Trusting you will give this matter your most careful consideration. I remain, etc., S. G. ROBINS, Sec. S. G. Robins, School Board.

THE PETITION.

To the Hon. J. D. Prentice, Minister of Education: The petition of the undersigned Trustees of the Golden Public School, humbly sheweth:

1. That the building at present used in Golden for a public school is totally inadequate.

2. That your petitioners have been forced to rent an additional room for the junior class, which is separated from a butcher shop by a board partition, everything that is said being heard in the butcher shop, and this is the only available room in Golden.

3. That the present school site is not suitable owing to the fact that there is not sufficient land to have a playground for the girls and boys in addition to the further fact that it is quite close to a hotel, the railway and public highway and the children are at all times in great danger.

4. That the present school building is extremely unhealthy in summer months, as well as extremely cold throughout the winter season, and parents do not daily refrain from sending their children to school on account of either illness throughout the summer season.

5. That Miss Joan Macdonald, until very recently occupied the position of second teacher, was forced to resign, owing to the ventilation of the school, and it being found practically impossible to keep a proper temperature.

6. The room at present used by the juniors is not only too small for the number of pupils, but has no playground whatever and is in close proximity to two hotels.

7. That it is not in the interests of this government of the school to have the junior division situated so far from the main building.

8. That during school hours the pupils are very frequently disturbed by passing trains and engines, particularly in this case during the summer season when the doors and windows are all open for the purpose of ventilation.

9. That owing to the increase of population in Golden, and the number of children who will shortly be pupils at the school, a fourth teacher will in all probability be required.

10. That the number of pupils on the roll at the present time is 116, divided up as follows: Senior grade, 34; Intermediate, 36; Junior, 46.

11. That the number of children of school age residing in Golden, and not yet in attendance at the school, is 16.

12. That the number of children residing at Golden and under school age is 91.

Your petitioners therefore pray: 1. That you will cause to be placed in the outskirts a sufficient amount of suitable building for school purposes can be erected at the earliest possible date.

2. Your petitioners submit that it is of the utmost importance, in the interests of education, as well as the health of the teachers and pupils, that the building should be ready for occupancy in the early part of the summer vacation is omitted.

3. That should children at present residing in Golden of school age apply for admission it will be met at difficult matter, if not impossible, to accommodate them.

4. That you may be pleased to take this matter into your most earnest consideration at as early a date as possible.

As in duty bound your petitioners will ever pray. Dated at Golden, B.C., this 14th day of February, 1901.

Objection having been made by J. C. Greene and others that the people assembled were not representative and that sufficient time had not been given to advertise, also that the purpose of the meeting was departed from, it was moved by F. W. Jones, seconded by Thos. O'Brien, that "this meeting be now constituted a public meeting for the consideration of school matters" — carried.

F. W. Jones pointed out that rarely, if ever, had there been a better attended public meeting in Golden and he considered the notices had been sufficiently circulated to secure the attendance of all interested. With a few further preparatory suggestions he introduced the following resolution, which, for all practical purposes, was unanimously adopted, the names of all favorable to the resolution being recorded by the secretary.

the Kicking Horse River to one on the Northwest, and that the proportions are much more in favor of the southeast side among the younger children. That sufficient land for a proper school and play ground can be obtained on the south east side of the Kicking Horse River, without expense to the Government, which is in every respect much more suitable.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the feeling of this meeting is, that the money now appropriated for school purposes in Golden be expended in erecting a school building on the southeast side of the Kicking Horse River, and further that we protest most strongly against the present location, as well as the proposed plan drawn by J. E. Griffith, Esquire.

AND BE IT FURTHER POINTED OUT that additional land will be required to carry into effect the erection of an addition to the present school which will in all probability cost in the vicinity of $1,500.

That this Resolution be forwarded to our Representative in the Legislature the Hon. W. C. Wells with the request that he give the matter his personal attention and that he be pleased to accede to the wishes of a great majority of the residents of Golden."

Dated at Golden this 30th day of March, A. D. 1901. CAPT. ARMSTRONG, Chairman. THOMAS O'BRIEN, Secretary.

Moved by T. O'Brien, seconded by R. W. Patmore that the secretary record the names of all present at this meeting who are in favor of the resolution protesting against the present school site. It was moved in amendment to the above by W. Alexander seconded by J. C. Greene that a list be opened for the signatures of those present at this meeting favorable to the resolution. The amendment was lost.

The following letter from H. G. Parson, agent for H. B. Alexander, owner of Golden townsite was presented and read:

S. G. ROBINS, Esq., Socy. P. S. Board Golden. Dear Sir,—I am advised by H. B. Alexander, Esq., to say, that he is prepared to donate lots 1 to 10, in Block 3, Golden South; for Public School purposes, providing a really good Public School Building is erected thereon and used as a school for the whole town, in lieu of the present P. S. Building.

Possession of the said property may be had by the P. S. Board as soon as they are prepared to go on with the erection of the building. Yours truly, H. G. PARSON, Agent for H. B. Alexander.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to Capt. Armstrong for the able manner he had discharged his duties, to which the Captain made suitable reply.

MINING NEWS.

(Fort Steele Prospector.) Petroleum is found in the extreme south eastern portion of the district. The North St. 7, Sullivan and Eugene mines are making daily shipments, amounting to 300 tons.

All the elements required for smelting duxes, such as limestone and hematite iron are found in this district.

The coal beds of the Crow's Nest Pass, consisting of over 250,000 acres, are situated in this district. The daily output of the Fernie mines is 1400 tons.

The Stanley group of mines are situated on Tracy creek and is an extension of the Estella. The development consists of several open cuts and a tunnel in 100 feet. A contract has been let for another 50 feet to Wm. Forsyth and Tom Rao and supplies sent up to the mine.

The mining camps of the Fort Steele mining division, will speak in no uncertain sound, when sufficient transportation is afforded to the output of ore, for mines situated in the main range of the Rocky mountains.

The slowness and unsatisfactory conditions of Railway construction in South East Kootenay, illustrates the truth that miners can't develop mineral properties without adequate means of transportation.

(From the Canterbury Outlook.) Snow has practically disappeared from Columbia valley.

The Windermere Division's prospects for the season's rush received the finishing touches when the Red Line deal was consummated.

Now that the "black-eye" given this camp last year has been proven false this camp is sure to attract the attention of capitalists and prospectors.

It is stated that efforts are being put forth by interested parties to have the Government construct a wagon road from the end of Toby road up Spring creek to Paradise basin.

A prospector's concert is to be given in Peterboro shortly. The talent is to be supplied by the prospectors, and some original and novel selections will be given, and is to end with a theatrical performance.

A Presentation. On Friday afternoon the pupils of the 1st Division of the Golden Public School presented Mr. J. A. Bates, the Principal, with an address and a handsome macintosh pipe, on the occasion of his retirement from the school. The address was as follows: ADDRESS.

Mr. J. A. BATES, Principal Golden Public School. We, the pupils of your division learn with regret your intended departure from the position you have so ably occupied during the last four years, and beg you to accept our sincere thanks for all your efforts on our behalf. We can testify to your ability and courtesy and know that you have spared no pains to aid us in our studies.

We ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a slight token of the high esteem in which you are held by the pupils of this division, and we hope that in whatever field of usefulness you may decide to exercise your talents in future you may meet with abundant success, happiness and long life.

We feel sure every pupil in the Golden public school will long cherish a memory of you in which good-will and friendship will form the component parts.

Signed on behalf of the division. Walter L. Houston, Laura T. Kenny, Maggie J. Archer. Golden, B.C. March 29th, 1901.

Many citizens of Golden will join with the school children in expressing their regret at Mr. Bates' departure and wishing him success in the future. Mr. Bates has made many friends since coming to Golden and these are parents who can testify that he has done his work well and is deserving of the good will of the community.

It was a grand race and at the finish only two eighths of a length separated the two "bells. Both crews were greatly distressed. The time was 22 minutes 31 seconds. At the start Cambridge was considered to have a great advantage, for winning the race, she was able to choose the Barry side and so secure some protection from the effect on the water of the half gale which blew from the southwest.

England, Germany and Japan have presented identical notes to Russia and China warning them that the signing of the Manchurian agreement will involve the partition of China. This combined action deters Russia from insisting on the signature of the agreement. France, while desiring to cooperate with England, Germany and Japan, has intimated to Russia that she would regard the conclusion of the Manchurian treaty as an unfriendly

Have you an Ideal Bond of the London Life? Nothing more desirable as a Protection and an investment has yet been devised. The Local Agent will give you full particulars. E. V. Chambers, Golden, - - - - Agent.

Is your life insured? If not call at this office and get particulars of what the London Life offers you. Lord Salisbury according to the Daily Express, is suffering from a kidney affection, which is likely to incapacitate him for some time. At the Senate Committee's investigation this morning, of the charges of Mr. H. H. Cook, that he could have purchased, for $10,000, a Senatorship, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright gave evidence, and satly contradicted Mr. Cook. Both swore that Mr. Cook's statements were absolutely untrue. Mr. Prentice, once a political organizer, gave similar evidence, as did Mr. S. O. Biggs, a Toronto lawyer. When leaving the room after the meeting was over, Mr. Cook threatened to attack Mr. Biggs. He said that he would also be his foe for him. This was because Mr. Biggs said that Mr. Cook ought to be removed of his conduct, in revealing private correspondence and private conversations. The evidence in the case is all in, and an adjournment for the hearing has been made until after the House

Townsite Of Golden. Business and Residential Lots For Sale. Blocks for Investors. Now is the Time to Buy. Moderate Prices & Easy Terms of Payment.

GOLDEN is the key to the Upper Columbia Valley the head-of-navigation on the Columbia River, and the centre of an extensive stock-raising and ranching country, extending from the headwaters of the Columbia River in the south to Tete Jaune Cache in the north. The important mineral discoveries recently made in the Golden and Windermere districts, together with the fact that transportation is now assured at an early date by a railway running the length of the Columbia and Kootenay Valleys, from Golden to Cranbrook, ensure great activity in the mining camps of North East Kootenay. Negotiations are also proceeding, which will ensure the operation of the Golden Smelter within the next few months.

THE GOLDEN TOWNSITE now offered forms the only land available for the extension of the building area. Present prices are favorable to investors, who will find it to their interest to purchase before a further rise takes place. No sale of lots is valid until purchaser receives agreement for sale signed by Townsite Trustees. Plans may be seen and prices and terms obtained on application. H. B. Alexander, Trustee, Sandon, H. G. Parson, Merchant.
