MAKE WORK FOR THE HOME FOLKS TOLMIE'S POLICY

Plug Leak of Population to the States by Industries He Proposes

ENCOURAGE MINING AND AGRICULTURE

Leader Speaks at Nanaimo Upon His Planks; Maitland, Shelly Also

NANAIMO, B.C., July 15.—Hon. S. P. Tolmie, R. L. Maitland, W. C. Shelly and V. B. Harrison, local candidates, addressed a meeting of electors here Saturday night. Dr. Tolmie devoted some time to the work which he had accomplished while British Columbia's representative in the federal house, and speaking of the Conservative plans "when elected on the eighteenth."

Mining would receive more encouragement than in the past; the abolishment of the free miner's licence would be one step toward encouraging prospectors, and the non-taxation of mines until they were producing a net revenue would also be considered. Agriculture should be encouraged and scientifically catered to. He instanced the fact that with huge range lands available, British Columbia last year imported 75 per cent of its beef, paying $5,750,000 for meat which should have been spent in British Columbia.

MAKE WORK AT HOME
The leak of population to the States must be plugged, stated Dr. Tolmie, and the way to do this was to encourage the manufacture of British Columbia's raw products and furnish work for Canadians in Canada.

He favored the opening up of the province through good roads, but would not use a Scotch policy of seeing that a dollar's value was received for every dollar expended.

Civil servants, contrary to the predictions of the Liberals, would not be discharged when the Conservatives were returned to power, provided they were efficient. He would keep them on the job whether they were Conservatives, Liberals or Holy-Rollers, if they were efficient.

THICK ICE FORMING ON ITALIA WAS CAUSE OF TRAGEDY; EYEWITNESS SAYS SHIP BLEW UP

Two Men Wandering on Ice Saw Six Airplanes, but Could Not Attract Attention; Graphic Account of Tragedy Told by Russian Relief Worker

MOSCOW, July 15.—A graphic account of the tragedy that befell Dr. Finn Malmgren, noted Swedish meteorologist, including his burial alive in an icy grave, is given in a radiogram to Tass, Soviet news agency, from Professor Samoilovitch, head of the Russian relief expedition aboard the ice breaker Krassin. Captain Mariano and Captain Zappi, companions of the scientist, were rescued by the ship last week and are now recuperating from their harrowing experience.

The three men left the main group of Italia survivors to try to find help and wandered aimlessly about in an ice-bound world until Dr. Malmgren could go no further. According to Professor Samoilovitch request for details as to how Malmgren died, Zappi said.

"In our march landward, we suffered untold privation. For days we drifted on floating ice. Several miles northwest of Broke island, Malmgren was unable to march on and told us to go ahead and take all the provisions. Before leaving Malmgren asked us to dig a grave in the ice and he lay down quietly. He stretched out his hand bidding us goodbye and handing us his compass requested us to give it to his mother.

URGED THEM TO LEAVE
"We plodded on slowly and in 24 hours were only 100 meters from Malmgren. We saw Malmgren raise his head. Hoping that, driven by hunger, he would go on with us, we waited. Realizing this Malmgren cried: 'Go, go, at the price of my life, you'll save all.'

"We marched on, suffering great privation. One mile from Broke island, Mariano became blind and again we drifted with the ice. During our wanderings we saw six airplanes only a mile distant, but none save Chukhnovsky, Russian aviator, saw us, despite our frantic signals.

CRIES WHEN HER
LAVISH PENSION
IS SIX DOLLARS

Liberals Ask Her If Worth Party's While to Get Her Raise, Borden Tells

WOMEN SPEAKERS TALK UPON SOCIAL RECORD

Conservative Party Pioneered in That Field Long Before World War

How Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, who was here in the Liberal interests at the by-election last fall, visited an aged lady and promised her an old age pension; how the pension, when after many months it came through, was for the princely sum of $6 a month, causing the recipient to shed tears in her disappointment; and how in the present election Liberal representatives went to her and asked her if it would be worth the party's while to get her pension raised to $20, was related Saturday evening by Dr. L. E. Borden, Conservative candidate, to a moderate audience at the opera house.

This illustration of the plane on which the government was administering the sacred trust of the old age pensions, half of the cost of which is borne by the Dominion, showed the government's debasement, Dr. Borden pointed out, and also showed what faith could be put in the hopes held out to unfortunate by those acting for the government.

As Mrs. W. M. Gowans of Grand Forks, who made a splendid address on the subject of legislation of interest to women, and Mrs. R. W. Chalmers, Lister, Fernie, Frank J. Putnam, Fred Lister, Miss V. Lister, Creston; O. W. Humphry, South Slokan.

close by Chairman R. G. Roy, vice-president of the Nelson Conservative association, soon after 10 o'clock, after a very effective hour and a half of discussion of public issues.

In everybody's mouth and wherever one went was the expression of opinion, "It is time for a change." Dr. Borden said. For such a universal opinion there must be a reason, and the reason was to be found in the misdeeds of the government. These misdeeds characterized every major aspect of the government's handling of affairs.

POCKETBOOKS HIT SAYS BORDEN

First was the pocketbook aspect, for when the net debt, the excess of obligations over the assets available to meet, was more than quadrupled in 12 years, rising from $19,000,000 to $85,000,000, the pocketbook of every taxpayer was affected. Taxation had also multiplied, and was the highest of any province in Canada by an enormous margin. He mentioned a lady on the outskirts of Nelson whose taxes were four times what they formerly were. These increases of debt and of taxes were brought about by a waste and extravagance that broke the pledges of the Liberals to reduce debt, reduce taxes and give economy and efficiency.

F. G. E. PLEDGES UNREDEEMED

Just as unfortunate was the dependence of the people on the government's P. G. E. promises, said Dr. Borden. The government, after years of broken promises and losses on the P. G. E., finally in 1924 made one more promise of completion, undertaking to complete it from Squamish to Prince George by September, 1925. At the ensuing session the King's Speech announced an agreement had been entered into for completing the road between those points. The year 1925 passed and no such occurrence took place but Dr. MacLean, speaking at Prince George, told the people of that district it was the government's policy to build the link from Quenest to Prince George. Finally last session Premier MacLean and Hon. A. M. Manson told the house a solution had been arrived at, but would give no details. Later it was set forth that in view of fresh negotiations with the government at Ottawa toward getting the Canadian National to take over the road, it was "not advisable to begin construction at present."

After all these visions from Victoria, Hon. C. A. Dunning stated in the house at Ottawa on June 6 last, that the P. G. E. was in exactly the same position as numerous other railways throughout Canada, that the management of the Canadian National was not authorized to make a settlement, and that any deal that was made would have to come before parliament for ratification.

Crowning the government's record of years of broken pledges and unredeemed planks in connection with the P. G. E., Premier MacLean now insulted the electorate with the claim that his government alone could negotiate with Ottawa and make one more promise that if returned he would make a deal.

CONSERVATIVES FOR GOOD ROADS

One of the great mediums of waste under the Liberals was the department of public works, said Dr. Borden. Its methods, being extravagant, and not giving a fair return to the public for its money spent on road construction, friends of the government often benefiting while the treasury suffered.

To place the department of public works on a public tender basis, and to give value for every dollar expended on the roads, was one of the objects to which the Conservative party under Hon. S. F. Tolmie was pledged, Dr. Borden said.

He said he would use every effort to improve and extend the provincial road system in this territory, would in particular work to have roads of a high standard between Nelson and Trail, Nelson and the boundary line, and Trail and the boundary line, and would press for the realization of all roads vital to the development of the district.

GOVERNMENT AND SOUTHERN ROUTE

Though Hon. Dr. Sutherland had given the boards of trade of the southern district innumerable assurances that the government would complete the southern route before commencing another transcontinental, he noted that the minister at Arrowhead promised connection from this district to the "main transcontinental," his reference being to one up north. "We have absolutely no desire to hurt Revelstoke," said the candidate, "but when Dr. Sutherland is making these promises of a new transcontinental up north, it is up to us to stand on our rights and demand fulfillment of the government's pledge to this district."

Dr. Borden declared that the province, under Dr. Tolmie, would have a mining, industrial and agricultural development that would bring the prosperity to which all had long looked forward.

MRS. GOWANS ON DICKYBIRD

Mrs. Gowans, justifying the women in taking every possible interest in politics, to help control conditions in the country in which their children would live, said a very large proportion of the social legislation in this province arose from movements undertaken by women's clubs and associations of a non-partisan character. Liberal promises in return for women's support, she said, were like the promises the photographer made to the "dickbird."

"Have we seen the dickybird?" she asked, amid laughter.

"Don't accept Liberal claims to social legislation unthinkingly," she cautioned, pointing out that all over the world for the past decade ideals of social advance had been in the air, and the government that enacted social legislation was only going with the current. On the other hand, in a decade when the world was not thinking socially, a Conservative government in British Columbia was pioneering in social legislation, and putting on the statutes act an act that was basic to the welfare of working men and women and to the welfare of the humble home, and of the child.

CONSERVATIVES PIONEERED IN SOCIAL FIELD

Before any wave of social reform had started to roll over the civilized world, she pointed out, the Conservatives in this province legislated to safeguard wages to the family of a deceased workman; placed the anti-tuberculosis movement on a legislative basis; acted as a factory act that protected workmen as to safely and conditions of work, women and girls as to hours, health and permitted occupations, and children as to immunity from factory labor; brought in government inspection of hospitals and of like institutions; set up juvenile courts for the protection of young delinquents; ordained medical inspection of schools; placed employment agencies under a licence system; provided a provincial home for girls; arranged maintenance for deserted wives; admitted women to the practice of law; arranged for inheritance on the father's property for better guardianship of infants; brought the moving picture industry under a censorship for the protection of the young; placed on the statutes the Married Women's Property act; enacted the Workmen's Compensation act; placed on the statutes the Women's Franchise act, to become operative if favorably voted on by the electors, as actually occurred.

FOR MOTHERS' BENEFIT

Mrs. Gowans declared the Conservative party today strongly approved and upheld the splendid principle of mothers' pensions, and was so moved by the Hamilton convention as seeking only to better it.

Further, the party proposed to bring in maternity benefits, applying the principle at first partially, and then giving it wide application as the province's finances improved.

Credit for first bringing up old age pensions was given by Mrs. Gowans to local union No. 6, United Mine Workers, at Nanaimo, which proposed this principle in 1906. It was next taken up by a Conservative federal member for Ontario, Mr. Pringle, in 1908, but Hon. Mr. Lemieux, then minister of Labor, claimed that the proposal was unconstitutional. Some eight years later Mr. Meighen gave the idea encouragement and promised his assistance, later fulfilled.

"Are we doing our duty when we allow our wonderful province to be placed under a great burden of debt, when we allow it to be overrun by Orientals, and when we consent to conditions under which our children are forced to go to other lands to find employment?" asked Mrs. Gowans.

She said she was just as good a poet as the author of the couplet who urged the electors to return Premier MacLean. Her version was:

On July 18 reject MacLean!
(Laughter.)

MRS. CHALMERS GIVES OPINIONS

Mrs. Chalmers, who spoke ex tempore for only a few minutes, said it was very amusing to hear the Liberals claim to have given women the vote. In view of the fact that the measure was on the statute-book at the end of May, 1916, while the Liberals did not come into office until September. It was similarly hard for the women's organizations that had worked so hard to secure mothers' pensions to admit the sweeping claims of the Liberals for that legislation.

The real origin of the mothers' pensions movement in the province must be ascribed, she said, to Miss Barrow of Chilliwack, who wrote a leader on the history of the new movement in some of the states, and broadcast it to the women's organizations. At first the organizations did nothing but note the matter, but after a while each began to find cases in which such a thing as a mother's pension would be 'just the thing.'

Finally, said Mrs. Chalmers, to feeling on this matter was brought to a head by the local council of women in Vancouver, which requested all women's organizations in the province to join in sending a delegation to Victoria to take up the matter with the Oliver government. It happened that the organization representing the women's institutes was in session at New Westminster, Mrs. Chalmers being a member of it, and it was decided to cooperate, but in view of the expense, the delegation was restricted to one person. In view of Miss Barrow's grasp of the subject, her pioneer work in the matter, and the fact that she was a Liberal, she was sent.

Premier Oliver told her he would think about the matter and give her his view later, but Miss Barrow on the whole came away feeling rather depressed.

Then, as instructed, she also waited on Mr. Bowser, then leader of the opposition, who assured her that under no circumstances would he offer any opposition to a measure on those lines if properly worked out.

"That I believe to be the true story of the origin of mothers' pensions," stated Mrs. Chalmers.

THE CANCELLED PENSIONS

Mrs. Chalmers made mention of the cases of two women, who happened to be Conservatives, having their mothers' pensions cancelled, regarding which she said Dr. H. H. MacKenzie had attacked the government platform in Nelson. She said she was a very good friend of Dr. MacKenzie, and regretted that he had allowed himself to be overcome by his political feelings. Dr. MacKenzie's explanation of the cancelling of one of the pensions—he did not deny with the other—that the woman owned the piece of property. His position apparently was that the woman should sell one piece, and survive as best she could while waiting for a purchaser.

When the Conservatives got into power, if a woman really needed help, even if she had two pieces of land that she would be forthcoming, for the Conservatives proposed to correct the weaknesses of the act, and to exclude politics altogether from mothers' pensions.

She was also attacked at South Slokan for mentioning this case. One Liberal speaker said he had investigated it, and sent the woman provisions. If it were the case, Mrs. Chalmers said, her calling attention to the matter had resulted in some benefit.

MEETINGS AT CRESTON, WYNNDEL, CANYON CITY

Esling Scouts Suggestion That Pre-cooling Plant Due to Opponent

CRESTON, B.C., July 15.—A strenuous campaign was carried out Friday favoring the Conservative candidate in the Creston district, Lieut.-Col. F. W. Wynn.

The candidate and party L. Ladner, M. E. Esling, M. P., and Ladner, M. P. were cordially greeted after their arrival from Nelson by a people of 500. During the afternoon W. K. Esling and Major E. M. Landine canvassed the town and arranged for the Sirdar people to attend a meeting to be held later in the evening at Wynn.

Col. Lister accompanied by Mr. Ladner addressed a meeting at Canyon City at 7 p. m. and later joined forces with George H. Morden, mayor of North Vancouver, at a meeting held at the Creston theatre.

The holding of three meetings the same evening with a good attendance on the part of the voters undoubtedly reflects the close interest the public are taking in the election.

AT WYNNDEL

WYNNDEL, B.C., July 15.—The public meeting at Wynn, held Friday evening by a large number of Sirdar voters as well as Wynn del people, foregathered to greet W. K. Esling, M. P., who is assisting Lieut.-Col. F. W. Wynn, Conservative candidate in the Creston district. Mr. Peadar was chairman.

Major E. M. Landine of Creston outlined the principal issues and advocated the return of Col. Lister as a supporter of Dr. Tolmie's policies.

Mr. Esling, on behalf of Col. Lister who was prevented from attending, accused the speaker at Canyon City and Creston, made a very effective address, referring more particularly to the Dumping act and its relation to growers of soft fruit.

Mr. Esling also gave a brief résumé in connection with the department of agriculture and the pre-cooling plant. He stated that in regard to the supposed influence of his late opponent relative to obtaining a grant for extension of the plant, he showed that it could be so, as the party was not then in Ottawa, but in England, and that himself had taken the matter up with the minister and asked for the amount.

He strongly supported the policy enunciated by Dr. Tolmie, and urged a change in government and the election of Col. Lister.

CRANBROOK CITY DADS COMPLIMENT FIRE DEPARTMENT

Pleased With Manner Handling Fire; Latter Day Saints Not Favored

CRANBROOK, B.C., July 15.—At meeting of the city council Friday, which Mayor Roberts was in the chair and aldermen Jackson, Arnold and Flowers were present, accounts amounting to $13,098.53 were ordered paid.

Alderman Arnold raised the question of the city trucks and moved, seconded by Alderman Flowers that this work should be divided equally among the city firms engaged in that business. Superintendent Phelan was present and explained the situation with respect to the repair of the trucks.

The motion was then withdrawn. Alderman Arnold reported for the fire department a committee for the fire department, which has been held to the Cranbrook relief board. The action was approved.

Reports from the fire inspectors' committee, fire chief and board of works committee were received. Alderman Flowers reported on the progress made in connection with the building to be erected at the station.

COMPLIMENT BRIGADE. Alderman Jackson suggested that the fire brigade and the fire chief should be complimented on the manner in which a recent barn fire was handled Thursday morning, and the success in preventing the fire from spreading. The council concurred.

Alderman Jackson, on behalf of the committee looking into the matter of fire protection outside the city limit, was granted a further extension of time for the work.

The question of constructing a sidewalk on the west side of Fenwick street, between Baker and Lou streets, was laid over to a later meeting. By laws 343 and 344, were reconsidered, finally passed and adopted.

A group of Latter Day Saints requested permission to hold a religious service in the park Monday evening. The matter was referred by the clerk to the mayor who did not do favorably upon it.

TELLS TRAILITES PRESS REPORTS ARE SCANDALOUS

Mrs. Rutherford Declares Reports Are Insult to the Electors

MacDONALD DISCUSSES LABOR LEGISLATION Also Talks of Finances and Freight Rates; Present Mrs. Rutherford

TRAIL, B.C., July 15.—"It is an insult to the electors for the press, including the Nelson Daily News, to cry out the extravagance of the Liberal Government. They have held the Conservative party high up in an effort to put the Liberal party out of power. The press reports are scandalous," stated Mrs. William Rutherford of Nelson in addressing the Trail Liberal ladies at a social tea, on behalf of Donald MacDonald, Liberal candidate for Rossland-Trail riding, Saturday afternoon.

"The Conservatives have never done a thing to help the legislation of the province," continued Mrs. Rutherford. "What chance you have, among other candidates, for president of some club, if a friend reporter of one of the candidates attended every meeting. The propaganda written in the press is disgraceful."

CHANGES POLITICS The speaker declared that when she came to British Columbia 31 years ago there was very little politics. The Conservative party had taken the reins of power and carried on with extravagance. She said that she was a Conservative supporter but the extravagance was so great that when the Liberals took over the government in 1916 she turned Liberal.

She thought Premier J. D. MacLean was a man of good caliber and a good statesman and that he was the man to handle the affairs of the province. In dealing with the Mothers' pension act she said it was one of the finest acts on the statute books, and that the British Columbia government was first in Canada to indorse it.

ROADS ARE BETTER Mrs. Rutherford spoke on road conditions in the province and declared they were in better shape today than they were 10 years ago. She remarked on the letter published by a Conservative engineer who stated that the Rossland-Cascade road was scientifically constructed.

The people didn't know the debt the government had to deal in 1916, and also the condition of the P. G. E., stated the speaker. Today the financial standing of British Columbia was such that this province could borrow money at lower rates of interest than any province in the Dominion.

Donald MacDonald, the candidate, discussed the labor legislation which was claimed by the Conservative party, and also dealt with the finances of the province. He also discussed freight rates.

On behalf of the Trail Liberal ladies little Miss Barchart presented Mrs. Rutherford with a lovely bouquet of flowers.

Mrs. D. Forrest, president, was in the chair.

VANCOUVER SURE OF CONSERVATIVE SWEEP WIRE SAYS

Coast Campaign Managers Wire Ewings, Trail; Libs Also Confident

TRAIL, B.C., July 15.—With fast approach of polling day, members of both political parties contesting Rossland-Trail riding are expressing confidence in the result.

Not only is the local outcome a matter of speculation and discussion, but province-wide predictions are being made that indicate that both parties are entirely confident that they will be returned to power on Wednesday.

Alex Ewings, president of the Rossland-Trail Conservative association, has received the following wire: "After careful canvass, sure of electing solid six in Vancouver city by handsome majority. Reports from surrounding seats and Fraser valley indicate Conservative sweep."

"A. C. DesBrisay, "V. A. Rollins, "Campaign managers."

Fred Fraser, president of Rossland-Trail Liberal association and campaign manager for Donald MacDonald, Liberal candidate, states that he has received reports from various parts of the province which indicate that the MacLean government will be returned with a clear working majority over all the parties in the house.

"Our leader and candidates throughout the country radiate nothing but confidence," stated Mr. Fraser.

ROSSLAND, B.C., July 15.—One of the pleasant features of the present provincial campaign was the smoker held in Velvet hall, Friday evening under the auspices of the Conservative association. W. K. Esling opened the affair with a brief address on the political situation, taking up the social legislation which had been passed from time to time, and dealing with the present financial position of the province. He laid special stress on the need of a permanent road between here and Trail, and of one from here to Paterson to match the one being constructed by the state of Washington.

Cards were played for a couple of hours, and social intercourse enjoyed. Community singing added to the entertainment. James Vipond presiding at the organ.

Leary Experienced in Legislature Let Him Continue His Good Work For Kaslo-Slocan Riding To the careful student of the business of government in British Columbia, the outstanding issue in the coming general election is the calibre of the party candidates, their business experience and their ability to place before the government and the legislature the needs and rights of their various districts. An unbiased review of the platforms of both Liberals and Conservatives shows in clear manner that no new issues are at stake, that the present opposition has nothing to offer that has not already engaged the serious attention of the MacLean government. In other words, the Liberal platform is recognized by the Conservatives as all that it should be. The difference in opinion is that the opposition hold the opinion that they can carry out the program better than the present administration. Can Inexperienced Men Do as Well? In short, what concerns the electors most is the question: Can a new board of directors, mostly inexperienced men in the realm of public service, improve upon the management of British Columbia's affairs by the MacLean government? We think not. The finances of the province are in excellent condition. This is indisputable and needs no further argument. British Columbia's credit is better than that of any other province in Canada. Such a condition reflects efficient and economical management in a pronounced manner. Secured Largest Appropriation in Province for His Riding Mr. Leary has steadily forced his way in the British Columbia legislature, until today he is recognized as one of the strongest members in the house. His fight for improved forestry conditions has borne fruit. So clearly has he brought home to the government the need for immense sums for development that he has secured the largest appropriation in the province. For Slocan-Kaslo's Greater Prosperity Slocan-Kaslo's present member has produced results. The eyes of British Columbia and, in fact, the eyes of the business world of Canada are centered on the immense mineral resources of this district. The commercial world is coming to Slocan-Kaslo for metals. Roads and trails are being built. More are needed, and will be built. Prosperity is at our door and we need a strong man, an experienced parliamentarian, at Victoria to see that our progress is not impeded. Vote for Sid Leary who has proved his ability to get results for Kaslo-Slocan

All around, the rich browns and soft faded green of earth, turf and tree, and old world villages that were ancient when the Civil wars tore the country asunder; they folded snugly along the long white roads that hump their shoulders and twist their tails till they finally tumble down to an inn parlor behind red curtains, where, after the benison of hot water, Mistress Boniface offers homely cheer and a tankard of the best. Thereafter, when eyelids droop, the head kindliness of sheets, and "the rough male kiss of blankets" that Rupert Brooke includes in life's blessings.

And so I write my little hymn of praise and thanksgiving to the God of all good walkers, and the pedestrian's paradise, where the sky sits upon the shimmering water like a sapphire crown, the air a robe of State, and His sea a mighty minstrel.

MAJOR WAITE IS ARRESTED UPON A CHARGE OF FRAUD

Former Mine Promoter Held in Nebraska on Action By Berg

SOLD MOLLY HUGHES STOCK OVER AGAIN

Colorful Promoter Stocks Up on Gay Duds on Leaving Spokane Quietly

SPOKANE, Wash., July 15.—Richard K. Waite, a retired major in the British army, who is said to have been doing Spokane in a Cadillac auto and an outfit of 15 suits of fine clothes, was arrested Friday at North Platte, Neb., on a telegraphic warrant here, after F. O. Berg, a tent and awning merchant, had complained that Waite fled him out of $12,500.

FORMER RESIDENT REPORTS

Mr. Berg appeared at the prosecutor's office yesterday with a warrant from H. M. Stephens, a former Spokane attorney, now in New York, which he declared showed Waite had sold him mining stock which had already been assigned to Phillip M. King of New York.

Deputy Prosecutor Del Cary Smith took the situation up with Prosecutor Greenough and a warrant was issued for Waite. Sheriff Brower received word late yesterday that Waite was arrested on a Union Pacific train at North Platte. Waite will be returned, Deputy Prosecutor Smith said.

"Berg says that Waite claims to be a retired major in the British army. Mr. Berg owned stock in the Molly Hughes mine in the Slocan district and Waite claimed he owned 321,000 shares."

HAD FINE WARDROBE

"Berg paid $12,500 to Waite for the stock but began an investigation when he learned Waite got out of town before he had said he would leave. Berg says that Waite had 15 suits of fine clothes and that he had four $100 suits made while here the last few days."

"Berg came to the office and demanded a warrant after H. M. Stephens made an investigation today at New York and found the stock does not belong to Waite. The stock was assigned to Phillip M. King of New York last December."

Prosecutor Greenough told Mr. Berg that the state would take no chances in the situation and that he must bear all expenses of the extradition. Mr. Berg agreed to do this and the warrant was issued.

Sheriff Bower will send a deputy after the major if extradition is permitted.

Major Waite is well-known in Nelson, which he made his headquarters for a year or two while engaged in mine promotion. He sold the Surprise mine in the Lardeau to Chicago interests and made a deal on the Howard in the Ymir section, to Cleveland interests. In connection with the Howard, now in other hands, a Portland moving picture operator to whom he sold an interest, later sued him for money advanced.

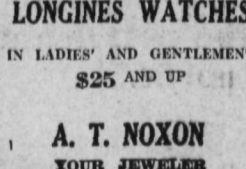

In Nelson at various times Mr. Berg has described Major Waite as his employee. The promoter is credited with having secured the listing on the New York curb, of the shares of the British Columbia Development corporation, the title under which the Molly Hughes operation is carried on.

He was in Calgary before coming to Nelson.

MORDEN FIGURES SOUTHEAST SEATS AS CONSERVATIVE

Creston and Cranbrook Are Sure for Present Holders; to Win Fernie

Expressing confidence in return of Conservatives, with a working majority Mayor George H. Morden of North Vancouver stated here yesterday that all indications point to a Conservative southern interior.

Mayor Morden, who has spent the past two weeks in Cranbrook, Fernie and Creston ridings, declared that N. A. Wallinger, member for Cranbrook in the last house, would probably increase his majority.

Col. Fred Lister, who would undoubtedly carry Creston riding, in spite of Frank Putnam's strong opposition.

M. D. McLean, Conservative candidate in Fernie, expected to defeat Thomas Uphill, member in the last house, by a narrow margin. The North Vancouver city seat expected to see a big McLean majority in Michel, exceeding a conceded majority for Uphill in West Fernie and Coal Creek.

PUTNAM, FISHER, HOBSON TALK CAMP LISTER

Liberal Candidate Says He Knows Ranch Problems; Ex-Fernie Member Speaks

CAMP LISTER, B.C., July 15.—A well attended Liberal meeting was held in the school house at Camp Lister on Saturday evening. Mr. J. Bird presided.

F. W. Hobson discussed at length the opposing views on the fiscal affairs of British Columbia and suggested to the audience that if they were unable to wade through the mass of figures and statistics presented to them from the public platforms and the press, they could with safety follow the lead of the big financial houses who employed highly trained actuaries to advise them and who were buying the bonds of the government at high prices whenever they came into the money market. The low rate of interest paid by the province indicated that our credit was good.

WILLING TO BE TAXED

I. Fisher asserted that the outcry against the increase of taxation did not come from the masses, who were prepared to meet the duties and obligation of their citizenship, but from the contrary emanated from the big interests who were making large profits from the exploration of the province's natural resources, but were unwilling to accept the position of the Liberal administration in its policy of obtaining a fair share of this profit, but on the contrary obtaining and selling of natural resources; and applying the money derived from this equitable taxation, in a democratic manner, to assist the people as a whole, to whom the resources rightfully belonged. Sketching many incidents which took place in the house and in committee when he was a member, he gave high praise to those who had conducted the business of the government in such a way as to enable them to finance the measures now enacted, such as mothers' pensions and old age pensions.

The expansion of the educational work was monumental, and the electorate must not go back to those who had served it so well.

PUTNAM ENCOURAGES SETTLERS

Mr. Putnam, the candidate, gave a heart to heart talk to the settlers, giving much time to discussion of problems from the practical side, and urged them to have faith. He had already taken up some of their problems and promised them his whole-hearted support, should he be declared their representative next Wednesday. There were many things to which they were justly entitled, but they could reasonably hope to obtain, and he hoped all would get together to that end. He was convinced that there was a future for the fruit industry, and as the only practical grower offering himself as a candidate in this election, he naturally would be interested in their problems, as in all questions relating to agriculture. He was a rancher and knew what it was to begin with a stump ranch. There were times no doubt when they were somewhat disheartened, but he urged them to stay with their task and expressed the hope that eventually success would be theirs. They could rely on him to be with them to give every possible assistance.

He was proud of his affiliation with the Liberal party, which he felt sure would be returned again to power, to give the people a continuation and development of the good government received for the past 12 years.

ROYAL FISHERMAN, SWEDEN, GETS PIKE

STOCKHOLM, July 15.—King Gustav V. of Sweden has set for his beloved summer resort, the picturesque Chateau of Tullgarn near Stockholm. Here he finds relaxation from his duties in quiet fishing trips together with his trusty servant "the King's fisherman," C. Eriksson, who has been in the employ of the royal family for 47 years and who invariably accompanies the king on his fishing excursions in the bay of Tullgarn. The King devotes the morning hours to his mail and starts out on his fishing trip at noon, if the weather is fine.

The King is especially fond of trolling-fishing with small fish as bait and will for hours glide along the reed-banks of the shore with two trolling-rods in action. He mostly gets pike and sometimes trout. The catch of one afternoon may run up into more than 20 fish. After a few hours of fishing the big motor boat of Tullgarn comes along at high speed carrying the provisions for luncheon and a number of attendants in a picturesque forest glade on the shore a tasty meal is spread on the grass, and on these occasions court etiquette is replaced by merriness and pleasant conversation.

When the meal is over the ladies and gentlemen-in-waiting return to the chateau, while the King and his faithful Eriksson resume their fishing, which on fine days may last until seven or eight o'clock at night, interrupted only by a cup of tea from a flask. In order to relieve the strain on his arms in holding the trolling-rod the King invented a fork-shaped contrivance for supporting the rod. Occasionally if there is a strong headwind, the King may be seen to help his friend Eriksson to row the boat back to the shore.

At eight p. m. the King takes his dinner and after dinner almost invariably enjoys a quiet game of bridge before retiring.

The Chateau of Tullgarn has a fine situation surrounded by a picturesque old park and glittering waters and also has an excellent garden, which yields a rich crop of flowers, fruit and vegetables for the numerous royal households. The King received Tullgarn when a Crown Prince 40 years ago, and it has ever since been his favorite summer residence, where he enjoys a simple and retiring mode of life with all the refreshing pastimes of a country gentleman.

CHAPTER XXVI.

"MY GIRL!" Landis and Lydia had dined often here together in the old days, and the head waiter recognized them. The head waiter led them to a table in a corner, specially designed for tele-grams.

"For four, please," Landis said, succinctly.

Lydia decided she must make the best of that.

A soft, golden light cast a becoming glow. Surprisingly she drew forth her tiny pocket mirror, and with a little sign of satisfaction realized that never in her life had she looked lovelier.

Rupert had obviously played the game, and taken off the bride.

"I want some salted almonds, please. Then, I think I'd like cantaloupe to follow—or will you have smoked salmon, Landis? That used to be a favorite dish with you in the old days, I recollect."

"Yes, he would have smoked salmon. It was nice of Lydia to recall his predilections."

Her eyes scanned the menu with a practiced glance.

"What about vol-au-vent for you? You always loved it. See how I have your weakness at heart!" She gave a little laugh as light and thrilling as a bird's.

"Curious how the other haven't come along!" He glanced at his watch again. Then, regarding her sharply, "You didn't make any mistake about the rendezvous, did you?"

She raised her beautifully pencilled brows.

"At Rupert phone you up, and give you time and place?"

"He did. Claridge's at eight."

"Then," said Landis slowly, "there isn't anything we can do but wait for them to turn up, and meantime enjoy ourselves as much as possible!" He gave her his first real smile of the evening.

"Thank heaven! he's thawing!" thought the siren.

She was very gay and amusing after that. More than once his laugh rang out. Lydia had wit and "bon camaraderie," when she chose to give full play to these attributes.

He had contrived to bring along a bottle of sparkling muscatel. It wasn't merely the wine of excellent vintage though it was—that went to his head a little. It was Lydia's amazing beauty. She was a golden girl tonight, indeed. The old, despairing feeling swept over him.

"Are you glad I came, Landis? Or are you sorry?" Her voice had a sweet tremolo, like the wind-swept chords of a harp in some lonely forest. Her fingers, trailing on the tablecloth, contrived to touch his hand—or did he dream it?

"Lydia!" He trembled to that touch of hers. "Oh, Lydia—!"

"If you'd only waited, Landis. If you'd only believed me when I said—"

"Landis! dear! I can't bear it!"

"I haven't changed! I never shall! These other men are nothing, nothing to me!"

A fluttering breath came from her lips. He could feel the old, intoxicating perfume of it.

"Landis!"

"Yes, Lydia."

"There hasn't been a moment in all these long weeks—since we parted—that I haven't thought of you!"

Silence between them.

"Say you believe me, Landis! When I—I got the news of your marriage—I—I almost died!"

With sheerest misery in those handsome eyes of his—those restless, questing eyes that so fascinated women—he turned his head away from her.

Her slender fingers touched his wrist.

"Oh, Landis! please—"

The orchestra—as though in league with Lyssa—erupted into that trembling melody of passion, the great love-song from the opera "Samson et Delilah."

White-faced, he turned to his companion.

"I can't stand it, Lydia! It seems as though tonight fate were driving us together. Do you remember—the same time we had smoked salmon?"

"Did she remember?"

Scented night of June! The sweet perfume of the fields along the river bank! Landis and she canoeing peacefully, after a long day spent together! They had moored under a drooping willow, and through its slender branches they had seen the moon come up—a big, white maddening moon—a honey-moon!

Against the polished wood of the canoe, the water had splashed a crouching melody.

And then—

From a house across the river there had come the cadence of that exquisite love song, gentle at first, then wild with passion and despair. A great operatic star in melting baritone had moved vast audiences, was pouring out his heart to the summer's night.

Head close in, Landis arms, she could feel his heart, too, thundering against hers—

Perfume and song and passion! What a night of nights!

For a moment, here in the fashionable New York restaurant, Lydia closed her eyes and lived again through each pulsating moment.

Love! It beat about her like the spiced perfume of poppies, aridizing her brain and setting the very soul a-fire.

Compared to that wild ecstasy of the gods, what did money and position matter? They were trivials, less than nothing . . .

Ah! if only she had married Landis, and never need they separate again! But it was too late now. She'd win him back!

See how he trembled to her touch! See how the pupils of his eyes dilated when he met her glance! Under her breath she half-whispered, half-sung the words of the aria:

"Say . . . just once again . . . just once again . . . that you adore me! Let me . . . once again . . . On, once again . . . I implore thee . . ."

To Landis it brought back pulsating memories, so that his breath caught in his throat.

Higher and higher, passion on passion, rose the throbbing melody.

Lydia's slim fingers touched his wrist. From the very tips of them flowed electricity, rushing to his heart and senses.

"Landis!"

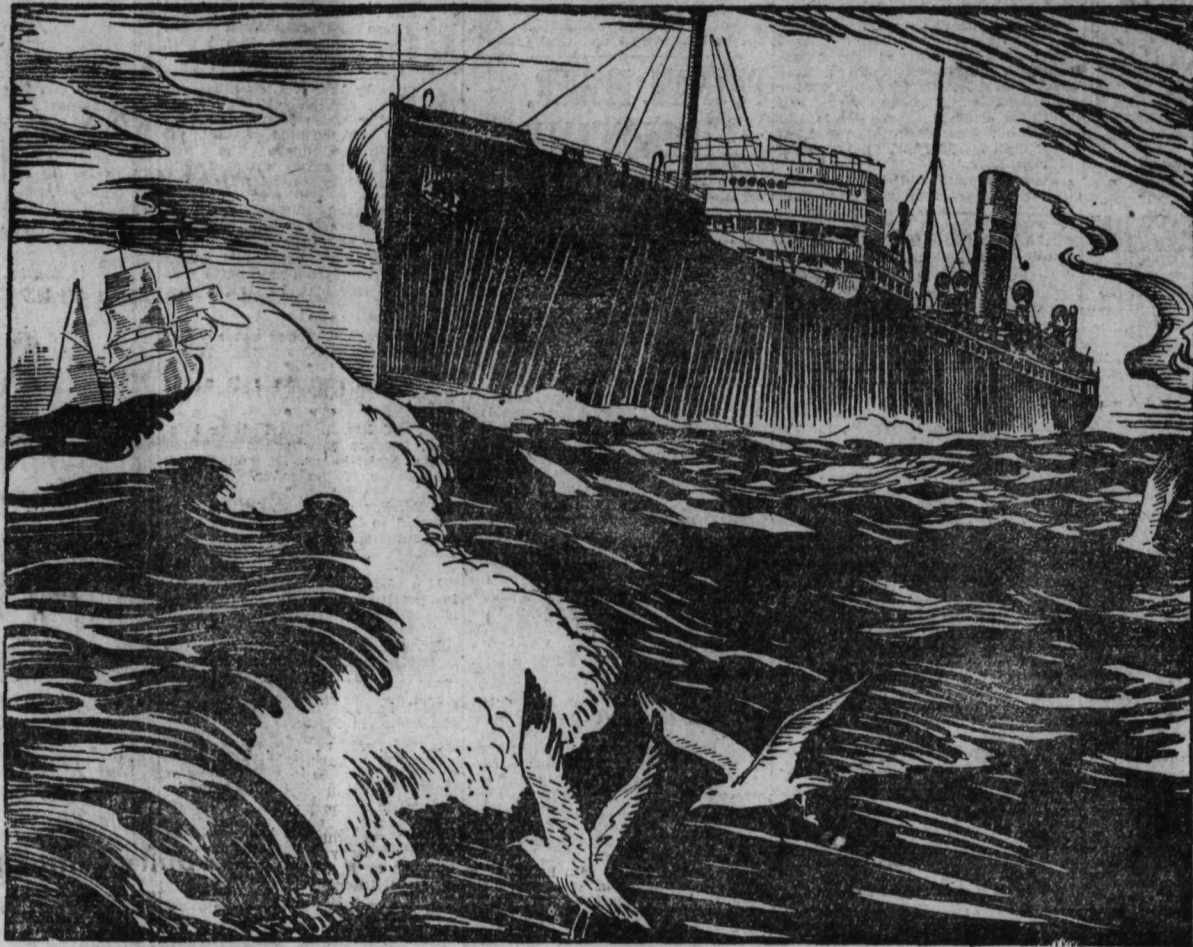

Delilah's voice was never half so sweet, so beautiful.

"My . . . girl!" The passion in those two brief words! His fingers long and brown and sensitive, closed over hers with agonizing grip.

Here was his love beside him—his—and no one else! As for his insane marriage with the innkeeper's daughter, that was nothing but a dream, a nightmare, from which he would wake to utter happiness!

A pulse was fluttering madly in Lydia's white throat. He had kissed her and fall of it so often . . . so often he would kiss it once again tonight . . . would drown his sorrows in the mad intoxication of her kisses!

Tomorrow—Surprises for Rosilyn.

ANTARCTIC AIR FLIGHTS WILL NOT BE A RACE

So Declare Byrd, Wilkins and Jeffrey Now Preparing For Trips

EACH WILL EXPLORE SEPARATE SECTIONS

Early Fall Will See Expeditions Under Way; To Select Ships

NEW YORK, July 15.—The prospective aerial expedition of Sir George Wilkins and Commander Richard E. Byrd to the antarctic are not in the nature of a race to the pole, says a statement by Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of the American Geographical Society, which has endorsed and is contributing to both expeditions.

Commander Douglas George Jeffrey, R.N., retired head of another antarctic expedition, which will attempt to delineate the boundaries of the huge Graham Land, which lies south of Cape Horn, has also stated there will be no spirit of competition with Wilkins and Byrd.

On the contrary, he would compliment those south pole expeditions.

Both Wilkins and Byrd flights will designate each other, Dr. Bowman said, the two flyers covering separate sections of the huge unexplored region. On the side of the great mountain range known to extend into the antarctic will be flying Commander Byrd, and on the other side Sir George Wilkins, each gathering data to make a complete record of the country.

"THE PLANS

Sir George, said for a flight from the ice barrier to the south pole and beyond to explore a part of the high antarctic plateau. Sir George is to fly from a point in the Ross sea near the ice barrier along the ice where the coast is believed to lie toward Graham Land. His plane is to be equipped with provisions so that at the completion of his flight he can land alongside one of the many whalers which cruise in that part of the ocean and be picked up.

Sir George, said Dr. Bowman, will leave Panama on a Norwegian whaler about November 1 and will begin his flight about January 1, just as Commander Byrd begins his work on base stations at the ice barrier.

The antarctic flight of Sir George Wilkins will be equal to or not longer than his flight from Alaska to Spitzbergen. It is over dangerous, unexplored territory probably beset by dangerous ice and strong winds swooping down off the ice cap.

"While in his long flight over the unknown coast of the Ross sea," he said, "will photograph the details of the coast, glacier tongues and mountain peaks, which he is expected to select sites for the meteorological stations which he has long planned to establish."

The object of those stations would be to coordinate weather reports from already established stations in the southern hemisphere, and establish a southern basis for long range weather forecasts.

by the late Sir Ernest Shackleton, will take a party of about 25 men and two planes and expects to leave for the key regions in September, returning some time in May.

Other veterans of the Shackleton expedition, who Commander Jeffrey says will accompany him are George V. Douglas, of McGill university, geologist, Dr. A. H. Macklin, of Dundee, Scotland, who was lost with Shackleton on the spectacular 1916 attempt to cross the antarctic ice pack and who was surgeon on both expeditions, and J. W. S. Martin, of Aberdeen, a biologist.

"While we may fly over the pole," Commander Jeffrey said, "the real purpose of the flight will be to define the boundaries of Graham's Land, south toward the Ross sea, and to learn whether it is a big continent or actually two or more bodies of land. There is some scientific reason to believe there are as yet undiscovered lands in that direction."

"We will establish a base on the west coast of Graham's Land and from there strike out after completing whatever exploration we can do on that side, eastward toward Coats' Land, which is the southern boundary of the Weddell sea. There is much to be learned in those regions."

DEEP SEA TYPE

The ships to be used have not been selected, but Commander Jeffrey said they would be of the deep-sea minesweeper type, capable of sucking the terrific ice floes. One of the two planes is being constructed. It is a small amphibian, such as Sir George will use, with a gasoline capacity of 100 gallons and a cruising radius of 6000 miles.

Commander Jeffrey pointed out that Shackleton lost two craft in the Weddell sea on his 1922 expedition and said he regarded his trip as a continuation of work done on that voyage. No vessel ever had survived the ice of Weddell sea, he declared.

The expedition, it is expected, may shed light on the extent of mineral deposits in the mountain ridge on Graham's Land, which, Commander Jeffrey says, is known to be a continuation of the Andes range in South America. Deposits of gold and coal have been found there, he says, but the extent of the mineral resources is unknown.

Commander Jeffrey hopes to verify the belief that the antarctic fur-bearing seals are not extinct, but have only fled south before the advance of man.

Commander Jeffrey said that on the eastern side of Graham's Land his expedition would be widely separated from those of Byrd and Wilkins. He expected, however, to be able to cooperate with them by radio in gathering and checking meteorological data. He also suggested that the bases of the three expeditions might be linked by flights across the antarctic land.

Commander Jeffrey is a navigator and meteorologist. At the beginning of the war he resigned from a south polar expedition under the leadership of Shackleton and was placed second in command of a destroyer. He was transferred to submarine work and was later given command of one of the British "mystery boats." He has been here since March.

Trade Winds

Breasting the trade winds, hulls deep with rich cargoes of Peruvian crude oil, Imperial tankers ply the two western oceans that Canadian motorists may have a better oil made from a better crude.

Out of the golden sand of far Peru comes the one crude that seems to have been stored by nature in anticipation of the demand for a better oil. Imperial enterprise discovered the superiority of this pure, sulphur-free and carbon-free crude—Imperial enterprise developed the Peruvian oil fields—Imperial enterprise transports this better crude to Canada—and Imperial enterprise makes it into a better oil—Marvelube.

Cobb Did Job Right Players Backed Him Up

HACK WILSON OF THE CHICAGO CUBS SOCKED A FAN WHO WAS RIDING HIM THE OTHER DAY.

BY AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)
"Hack" Wilson of the Chicago Cubs leaped into the stands recently and administered a lumpy thumping to an irate fan who had been "riding" him all day.

Fy Cobb pulled the same stunt in Philadelphia years ago and almost broke up the American league. Cobb jumped into the stand and socked his tormentor and was fined and suspended indefinitely for his escapade until he was reinstated. The officials wouldn't back down and neither would the Detroit team and the next day the Detroit team took the field with a team of "strike breakers", a motley crew of amateurs, semi-pros and bushers picked overnight. The Athletics, needless to say, swamped them about 28 to 0. The strike lasted one day. Cobb asked the regular players not to jeopardize themselves on his account.

BIRMINGHAM MAN PROVES WINNER OF KING'S PURSE

Lance-Corporal Lane Is Just 3 Points Ahead of Lieut. Burke, Ottawa

LATTER COMES SECOND SECOND TIME RUNNING

Successful Score Is 283 Out of Possible 300; Nine Canucks in the Money

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 15.—Lance-Corporal A. C. Hale of Birmingham is the possessor of the King's prize, the highest honor for any individual marksman in the British Empire, for the next 12 months. Scoring 283 out of a possible 300, Lance-Corporal Hale won the prize on Saturday. He finished three points ahead of Lieut. Desmond Burke, of Ottawa, winner in 1924, whose score was 280. Lieutenant Burke therefore finished second for the second successive year, last year being runner-up to Vernon.

The final stage was witnessed by the largest crowd in the history of the shoot and was broadcast by radio for the first time. The weather was the hottest in many years.

BURKE'S CHANCE GOOD
Lieutenant Burke, who in 1924 provided Canada with its fifth victory in the classic of service rifle shooting, yesterday had a good chance to repeat, going in to the last of the five ranges which the marksmen fired at in the second and third stages. His score entering the 1000-yard range was 210, and Hale's score at the same point was 211. Burke, however, scored 70 out of 75 in the last distance, whereas Hale scored 72 to give him the three-point margin of victory.

Lance-Corporal Hale was presented with the King's prize of $1250 and the National Rifle association's gold medal and gold badge, by Lady Jellicoe, wife of the chairman of the N. R. A. council. Lieutenant Burke received the N.R.A. prize of $250 for second, together with the N. R. A. badge.

Lieut. G. F. Booth, formerly of the Royal Air Force, was third, to win $100. Sergeant French of the Hertfordshire Regiment was fourth, winning $50, and Sergeant MacCallum, formerly of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, was fifth to win $25.

CANUCK SCORES
Nine of the 18 men of the official Canadian Blesley team shot in the final stage of the King's prize, 15 shots at 500 and 1000 yards.

Their final scores in the second stage on Friday when firing was at 300, 500 and 600 yards, were added to the third stage scores to determine the final standing.

The Canadians finished as follows: Lieut. Desmond Burke, Ottawa—Second stage, 138; third stage, 142; total, 280; second place; won $250.
Sergeant-Mr. R. Kiddie, Toronto—Second stage, 136; third stage, 134; total, 270; thirteenth place; won $25.
R. Stevenson, Montreal—Second stage 143; third stage, 127; total, 270; seventeenth place; won $25.

Sgt. C. W. Foam, Montreal—Second stage, 137; third stage, 132; total, 269; nineteenth place; won $25.
Pte. E. R. Davies, Vancouver—Second stage, 136; third stage, 130; total, 266; twentieth place; won $25.
Sgt. H. Burton, Victoria—Second stage 142; third stage, 124; total, 266; thirtieth place; won $15.

Major Richardson, Victoria—Second stage, 137; third stage, 128; total, 265; forty-second place; won $15.
Sgt. J. H. Regan, Victoria—Second stage, 138; third stage, 124; total, 262; fifty-fourth place; won $15.
Sgt. S. Dawson, Ottawa—Second stage, 136; third stage, 107; total, 243; ninety-seventh place; won $15.

Desmond Burke Is Winner of National Association Trophy

BISLEY CAMP, July 15.—The challenge trophy offered to the National Rifle association by the Dominion of Canada Rifle association as the award for the winner of the grand aggregate at the National Rifle association meet at Bisley was won by Lieutenant Desmond Burke, Ottawa, with an aggregate score of 520 out of a possible 555. The scores in 10 individual service competitions determined the winner of the grand aggregate, which is an important feature of the great Empire meeting which concluded at Bisley yesterday.

In addition to the cup, Lieutenant Burke won $50; Sergeant Lewis of the Welsh regiment was second, to win the silver cross and $30. The Australian Blesley team leader, Payne, was third, to win the bronze cross and $20.

TRAIL SOCCERITES TOO GOOD FOR THE KOOTENAY CHAMPS

Take Nelson Eleven Into Camp 4-2 in West Kootenay League Game

In a game that was all theirs from the first whistle but which they did not take until the dying minutes of the game, Trail representative soccerites beat the Nelson representatives, last year West Kootenay champions, 4-2 in the second round of the West Kootenay soccer series at the Recreation grounds here Saturday afternoon. Trail is now two games up, having won the first game of the series on May 24 by as good a margin.

Trail set out from the first whistle to make the Nelson team look foolish and unnecessary and but for the stellar game turned in by Hinges in the Nelson goal, must surely have trounced the local team severely. Seemingly confident of victory in the first few minutes, the Trail boys seemed to be in no hurry to put the game away. They shot repeatedly on Hinges and that player was called on to exert himself often—almost as often as if he had no other team mates on the field. Still the Trail boys on many occasions, did not shoot when that would have been the logical thing to do, and when there was no visible reason why they did not.

NO SCORE IN FIRST
While they ran rings around Nelson in the first half and allowed the ball down at their end of the goal only six minutes of the 45 minutes, that period ended with no score for either team. Nelson made about a half dozen good rushes during the first half, all but one of which were checked before they got anywhere. On the one rush that was not checked well up, Nelson nearly scored and Marshall, who was in a saving what was the only one he was called upon to save in the first half.

NEARLY GOAL
Rothery received the ball on the right wing and close in, centered to Davidson. Davidson shot and it looked as though Marshall had been beaten. Marshall went down and succeeded in showing the ball around the post. It looked as if the ball had crossed the goal line and many spectators claimed it had. Nelson was given a corner kick but the ball was grabbed by the Trail player and those boys once again took up the attack on the Nelson goal.

Nelson made about a half dozen good rushes during the first half, all but one of which were checked before they got anywhere. On the one rush that was not checked well up, Nelson nearly scored and Marshall, who was in a saving what was the only one he was called upon to save in the first half.

NEARLY GOAL
Rothery received the ball on the right wing and close in, centered to Davidson. Davidson shot and it looked as though Marshall had been beaten. Marshall went down and succeeded in showing the ball around the post.

It looked as if the ball had crossed the goal line and many spectators claimed it had. Nelson was given a corner kick but the ball was grabbed by the Trail player and those boys once again took up the attack on the Nelson goal.

Just before half time McVie put the ball in the Nelson goal, but he was offside.

JEFFS SCORES FIRST
It looked as if that formation was the best one when Jeffs, receiving a pass from Bandy as the half started, made an individual rush, uncovered, up the field and scored the first goal of the game before the Trail boys knew what had happened. It was a pretty goal and beat Marshall all the way.

After that goal Jeffs was watched closely and did not get another opportunity, but the game became an even more terms and for a time seemed in a dangerous position. Once he had to come way out to save and did it successfully.

McVIE, LAURIE, SCORE
Trail went down for five minutes after Nelson's goal and peppered them on Hinges. Finally McVie with a nice placed, ground shot, beat Hinges a mile. Hinges never had a chance. From the center of Trail tore in again and Chandler hit just a little wide. Trail continued to play in and within two minutes of their first goal had added another when Laurie took a hot shot form a scrimmage. Again Hinges never had a chance.

The game lived up somewhat but still Trail held the upper hand and shot them at Hinges at random and forced corners when the backs tried to intercept.

BENDY SCORES
Finally Nelson broke away and Bandy went clear up the field and shot. Marshall stopped the ball but not before it was well across the goal line. Davidson, to make sure, rushed in, and both he and Marshall piled up in the corner of the net.

First Aid Team Goes East for Western Title

Trail Soccerites Too Good for the Kootenay Champs

Take Nelson Eleven Into Camp 4-2 in West Kootenay League Game

In a game that was all theirs from the first whistle but which they did not take until the dying minutes of the game, Trail representative soccerites beat the Nelson representatives, last year West Kootenay champions, 4-2 in the second round of the West Kootenay soccer series at the Recreation grounds here Saturday afternoon.

Trail is now two games up, having won the first game of the series on May 24 by as good a margin. Trail set out from the first whistle to make the Nelson team look foolish and unnecessary and but for the stellar game turned in by Hinges in the Nelson goal, must surely have trounced the local team severely.

Seemingly confident of victory in the first few minutes, the Trail boys seemed to be in no hurry to put the game away. They shot repeatedly on Hinges and that player was called on to exert himself often—almost as often as if he had no other team mates on the field.

Still the Trail boys on many occasions, did not shoot when that would have been the logical thing to do, and when there was no visible reason why they did not.

NO SCORE IN FIRST
While they ran rings around Nelson in the first half and allowed the ball down at their end of the goal only six minutes of the 45 minutes, that period ended with no score for either team.

APATHY ENFOLDS TRADE ON STREET

Prices Head Upward at Opening But Rally Peters Out at Once

NEW YORK, July 15.—Extreme dullness characterized Saturday's irregular stock market. Prices headed upward at the opening, but the rally quickly petered out under weak-end realizing sales. Total sales of 477,800 shares were the smallest of any session since the middle of 1926.

Fears that rediscout rates may again be advanced, with a 6 per cent charge talked of in many quarters, kept trading in check. The weekly trade reviews were generally favorable and held out hope for better business in the last half of 1928. An increase in the Atlanta Federal Reserve rediscout rate brought the number of central institutions charging 5 per cent for rediscouts to four, with the other eight expected to follow suit.

Refining, which was bid up 5 points to 143 1/2, the highest price since 1923, was the outstanding feature. Indian Refining preferred soared 1 1/2 points to 220 1/2, after having sold as low as 180 earlier in the week.

KIMBERLEY THE

Claims MacLean Must Be Retained If P. G. E. Be Success and Pensions Stay

ATTACKS CONSERVATIVE METHOD OF FIGURING

Candidate McPherson Predicts His Election; Connection With Windermere

KIMBERLEY, B.C., July 16.—At a well attended meeting at Kimberley Saturday, J. W. DeB. Farris, K.C., and Mrs. H. A. McKowan addressed the electors in support of the candidacy of P. M. MacPherson. Many ladies were among the audience.
A. R. Swanson, president of the district Liberal association, occupied the chair.

CANDIDATE SPEAKS
Mr. MacPherson expressed his confidence in Dr. MacLean and his prospects of his return, and spoke of his own residence in this district for 20 years.
Mr. Swanson mentioned an alternative entrance to town from the new road to the Banff-Windermere highway, and voiced the cooperation of the government to that end.
Mrs. McKowan in a very interesting speech mentioned the confidence of the women in Mr. MacPherson and the MacLean government and its enactments for the benefit of women and children.
Mr. Farris said no change of government was needed unless Conservatives could prove that they could improve on the present one. He claimed that the Liberals could do nothing but take over the P. G. E. contract and its great liabilities. He also said if Conservatives used the same principle in figuring the last Conservative budget as they did in criticizing Liberal finance, the Conservative debt would have been even larger than they claim the Liberal debt to be.

DANGEROUS TO CHOOSE CONSERVATIVE
He claimed that old age pensions were in danger and the P. G. E. project a failure if Hon. S. F. Tolmie took the place of Premier MacLean in the conference room at Ottawa. He declared that there was no chance of the government being defeated, as he predicted the election of six Liberals in Vancouver and four in Victoria.

The speaker stated that Conservatives claimed their own last debt as $20,000,000, and the Liberal debt as $102,000,000, by taking the Conservative net debt and the Liberal gross debt, and adding to the Liberal gross debt the P. G. E. bonds, although these bonds had been incurred by the Conservatives. He also mentioned a $5,000,000 bond issue for the Canadian Northern which would place the province in the same position with regard to it as with regard to the P. G. E. He also claimed the Conservative party was responsible for the liabilities of the P. G. E. It was necessary to borrow $20,000,000 to put on this road.

Mr. Farris stated that Mr. Tolmie declared the old age pensions a federal matter, but that it was not, as Canada had no jurisdiction to do anything but supplement in the act. He also said that Dr. Tolmie's leader declared old age pensions a provincial matter.

Dr. MacLean said the province was going to have state health insurance, and pledged his word as prime minister that he could accomplish that.

MERCURY REMAINS HIGH WITH A LIGHT BREEZE
Hundreds of kiddies and adults swarmed to the lakeshore over the week-end, while the sun was at its warmest. A light breeze, which blew most of the day, lessened the heat considerably. During the 24 hours the mercury ranged between 46 and 84.

The humidity reading showed that the moisture in the air was at 80 at 8 o'clock in the morning. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon it had dropped 30 degrees to 50. It was back to 53 at 5 o'clock last night.

YOUR EYES

By J. A. C. Laughton, R.O. OPTOMETRIST
Griffin Block - Nelson

THE INFLUENCE OF OPTICAL DEFECTS UPON THE GENERAL SYSTEM

Any decided derangements in the build of the eyes, or in the proper balance of the ocular muscles may, depending upon the degree of impressionability of the nervous system in each individual, exert a profound influence upon the general system.

Of the twelve pairs of cranial nerves, six pairs have some connection with the eye, and several of these have relationship with nerves supplying other important organs of the body.

So it is that other organs can and do effect the eyes, and the eyes likewise can and do have an effect on other parts of the body if not functioning proper.
