ABBYY' GUIDED LOST AIRMEN OVER TREACHEROUS ICE FLOES TO LAND ON LABRADOR COAST

Report by Radio Tells Vivid Tale of Hardships Endured

COMPLETELY LOST NO SUN AS GUIDE

They Vibrated Badly Before Fuel Ran Out;
Out of Grub

STAWA, March 6.—Giving vivid details of the adventure of Flying Officer Lewis and Sergeant Terry of Hudson straits air patrol, who were lost for 21 days on ice off the Labrador coast after a forced landing, a further report was received from Port Burwell wireless station today.

The message is a soldierly report of the details that would be of help to airmen and telling without any of the important facts of the adventure.

The report commences with a description of weather conditions on the day the airmen, accompanied by a radio operator, left Port Burwell to carry out a patrol on the Labrador coast.

On the resolution island was a compass and a map, and the report, "a compass course was taken to Button islands, and at this time the engine started to trouble, losing revolutions and going badly."

Topographical features of the sea seen through mist and heavy fog led Flying Officer Lewis to believe he was actually over Akpatok island, a Unga, having drifted in that direction by northeast wind and also by the fact that he was holding to a westerly course to south of Unga, rather than east coast into the Atlantic.

He decided his position over Akpatok of 137 degrees was then upon which should have taken to Port Burwell.

LOSING REVOLUTIONS
The message, the engine was more revolutions and becoming rough. At 10:10, no further land was sighted, and due to petrol shortage, it became necessary to select a place on the ice. This was done four minutes later on very low ice among ice hummocks and a high as 20 feet. The machine of course, and came to a stop up against rafted ice over the top of itself with very little damage being broken propeller, spring, and axle. No land being visible at the time, the party decided to re-visit the machine overnight.

CLYDE BAD
The morning of 10th: Found visibility bad; no sun in view to get position of snow falling. Estimating this to be Unga, it was decided to take the machine compass, fuel, and strike for a more easterly direction. Traveled for 18th over very heavy ice, as day advanced became almost a wall. That night was spent in a house.

It broke clear and fine on 19th. In all directions excellent and (Continued on Page Eight.)

MAN WHO SENT THREATENING LETTERS HELD

Doris McDonald Held;
Signed "K.K.K."

MONTREAL, March 6.—With the arrest and appearance of Rosario Bourgie, aged 21, in police court here today on charges of sending "threatening letters," the police declared that the mystery surrounding the forwarding of missives for the past several weeks to the authorities threatening to "burn up" the Fullin street jail, where Doris Palmer McDonald is confined under the sentence of death with her husband, George C. McDonald, for the murder of a taxi-driver last July, has been solved.

The police stated Bourgie admitted sending the letters which he signed "The President of the K.K.K.," and "The Chief of the Blackhand." Preliminary hearing was set for March 14. In the meantime, the man will be under observation of doctors.

The letters received by the various jail officials, the mayor and others connected with the McDonald case, were all of a threatening nature. ### HOLY WAR NEAR REALITY ARABIA; PLANS UNKNOWN

Desert Region Between Red Sea and Persian Gulf Is Scene of Revolt

DECLARE WAR ON THREE OF BRITISH MANDATES

Threat May Be Merely Tactical
One; Tribesmen Are Indignant

LONDON, March 6.—The "holy war" in Arabia came nearer to reality tonight when an Exchange Telegraph agency dispatch from Jerusalem brought word that Ibn Saud, king of the Hedjaz and sultan of Nejd, had made a formal declaration of hostilities against the three British mandates that border his desert realm from the Red sea to the head of the Persian gulf.

Official quarters are silent, but allow an inference that active steps are being taken to meet the situation. English newspapers openly discuss the problem of defence against this menace of the Wahabi tribes.

The situation was created when the Arabian desert king, formerly a friend of Great Britain, decided to cast his lot with the war-like groups, which long have been raiding their northern neighbors. Ibn Saud, with typical Mohammedan tactics, at once put the movement on a religious plane. He is, however, directing his campaign at "renegade and unfaithful" sects, against whom he will lead "true Moslems."

Ibn Saud, some observers estimate, may be able to place 30,000 hardy fighting fanatics in the field. There is a suspicion in some quarters that Ibn Saud's threat may be merely tactical. These sources see him aiming at a closer relation with certain powerful sheiks who have not been supporting his rather unstable desert realm with any too great loyalty. They also credit Saud with a yearning for the yearly subsidy which the British gave him for his aid in keeping some of Turkey's allies busy during the world war.

Ibn Saud gained his dominance in Arabia by valiant deeds in tribal warfare and ascetic habits of living. Despite his desert surroundings he has a great fondness for radio and fast automobiles. When he travels through the Arabian wilderness he and his harem of 24 wives with a large staff, move at high speed in huge motor cars.

ARE INDIGNANT JERUSALEM, March 6.—The recent raids of the Wahabi on trans-Jordanian villages and towns has called forth great indignation among the tribesmen who are clamoring for revenge. ### Edgewood People Aid Two Deer to Safety From Smooth Lake Ice

EDGEWOOD, B.C., March 6.—Two deer which had got stranded on the ice below Edgewood were observed by Bernard and Walter Jowett when crossing the lake one day last week. The deer had evidently walked on to the ice, which was as smooth as glass, and were unable to keep a foothold, and when found were straddled out on the ice and could not rise. They were helped off the ice by means of one taking them by the ears and drawing them along and the other pushing behind. In this way they reached the shore, and the deer soon left the vicinity. It is thought the deer had gone to the lake for a drink and mistook the clear ice for open water.

BRITISH GUIANA WISHES BECOME PART OF CANADA

Then Escape Watchful Eye

J. A. Tinne, Conservative member for Waverley, and a British Guianan told the house of commons today.

During a recent visit to the colony Mr. Tinne said, residents had asked if it would be possible to bring the colony within the bounds of the Dominion. He had pointed out the difficulties and told the colonists if they got their constitution and finances settled they might forward to the introduction of Canadian capital and enterprise to assist development of their great resources.

CANMORE PLAYERS COME BACK STRONG IN THE LAST CANTO; JACKSON PLYS WELL

Riva in Canmore Net Is Star; Kendall, Gustason and Mackie
Have Big Night; Two Thousand Fans See Game;
Next Game on Thursday; Penalties Numerous

TRAIL, B.C., March 6.—Tearing into Canmore Miners with polished, relentless fury, Trail Smoke Eaters battled through three periods of scintillating hockey to a 9-3 victory over the Alberta champs in the opening stanza of the western Canada hockey championship playoffs here today before a crowd of 2000 fans. It was the first game in the British Columbia-Alberta Allan cup playdowns.

Their victory puts the British Columbia champions six goals up in the lead for points, on which the western title hangs—a handicap, however, that the Miners may not find insurmountable. They are at all times a dangerous crew, speedy, weighty and clever stick-handlers.

Trail had a big edge by superior combination, and their habit of playing the puck both ways, going out and on defence. The Miners, brilliant soloists, were unable to finish, and found themselves with little support at the net, and permitted themselves to be crowded before making attacks. But they were well balanced and when they went out spasmodically in combination they did their stuff with telling effect. They improved noticeably and were battling strong at the final bell. They opened their scoring late in the second and added two counters twice in the third. Trail amassed three goals in each period.

Trail went out to crash through a goal from the face off. Anderson and Wheatley tested Riva in the first minute. But Reddick opened the scoring at 2 minutes, by slamming an opportune shot from the blue line between the posts. It caught Riva napping. CANMORE PRESSES

J. Jerwa and Shiron with a two-man attack opened up on Jackson. Wright and Dub Mackie followed with shots in quick succession on a two-man drive that took them down the rink and around behind. Jackson was equal to both shots. The visitors were showing amazing speed and good penetrating power at this time, but were held off clean shots by Anderson and Reddick.

Brennan notched the second goal in 9 minutes 30 seconds. Kendall leading the attack slipped the puck out to Mackie as he went up for possession. Mackie skidded a teaser across the goal mouth. Riva reached it first, but came down to ice in a scuffle with Kendall and Bleskan, while Brennan flipped the loose puck inside.

RIVA STARS
Bleskan holding up Reddick's rush. J. Jerwa soloed out in a brilliant exhibition, but was sent to the boards by Anderson. Riva saved a bad situation by intercepting Gustason's centering out to Wheatley. At this stage the Miners checked stubbornly at center ice. Bleskan staged illusive rushes and Wright made hard long drives from center. Gustason and Wheatley stubbornly contested the visitors' attacks. Riva won applause with a bright save from Kendall and a thrown clearance in the face of Trail men.

maze of reaching sticks and passed out to Kendall near goal. Kendall faked, Riva rushed and slid, and Kendall shot at the open goal.

CANMORE SCORES Following an exciting scrimmage at the Miners' goal, the Miners, close beset by Gustason and Wheatley in their own area, broke away. A Jerwa went up on a dazzling solo effort, penetrated the Trail defence and at two yards shot by Jackson to bulge the net for Canmore's opening goal. It came at 12 minutes 40 seconds. Gustason gave Riva a scare and everybody a thrill with his stick work and a smashing shot that Riva saved on the jump. Then Trail made two goals in 20 seconds. Reddick, soloing, followed up four rebounds and finally beat Riva with a shot in 14 minutes 30 seconds. Mackie scored unassisted at 14 minutes 50 seconds. During the remaining minutes Anderson and Reddick distinguished themselves with quick and clever clearances of rebounds and Jackson made a remarkable save, from "Dub" Mackie.

GUSTASON SHINES Gustason, getting Kendall's pass to wing on a great bit of combination play, resumed scoring for Trail in the third in 1 minute 50 seconds. He repeated precisely the same trick at 4 minutes 10 seconds. Penalties for minor infractions were handed out freely. Reddick got two minutes for a foul body check. With the teams reduced, Joe Bleskan resumed the scoring for the Miners. He bulged the net with a hard drive on J. Jerwa's centering pass at 10 minutes 15 seconds. The Miners were playing combination, making themselves difficult to handle, with the Trail men falling back on defence. Then Wright, stick-handling in masterly style, broke through the Trail defence and rapped one between Jackson's legs for the third and last Miners' goal at 16 minutes 40 seconds. Wheatley scored the final goal of the game from a pass by Kendall at 17 minutes 45 seconds.

PATTULLO DENIES ANY POWER PLAN

Says Has Nothing to Do With Assinabona Park or C. P. R.; Jones Criticizes

VICTORIA, March 6.—Suggestions that the government's proposal to lease Assinabona park to the Canadian Pacific railway was intended to facilitate plans for hydro-electric development of Spray Lakes, Alberta, were denied in the legislature today by Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands. He had never even heard of Montreal interests reported to be working on a power project, he declared, in reply to H. D. Twigg, Conservative, Victoria.

Mr. Twigg declared that the parks legislation was a double-barrelled measure, with each barrel loaded with dynamite. He said that one amendment wiped out Assinabona park altogether while the other gave the minister power "to do what he pleases with the other areas under the parks act."

JONES CRITICIZES New legislation now before the house to lighten the charges assessed against Sumas farmers in connection with the Sumas reclamation scheme does not go far enough, J. W. Jones, Conservative, South Okanagan, contended when the debate on second reading was continued. Mismanagement had been rife from start to finish of the scheme, Mr. Jones declared, claiming that although its original cost had been estimated at $1,800,000, it had actually cost about $4,000,000.

Hon. E. D. Barrow, minister of agriculture, challenged this statement asserting that the actual construction cost had been $2,864,661.

Attorney-General Manson's new gasoline tax putting the existing levy on a firmer constitutional basis, passed second reading.

FIAT NECESSARY BEFORE SUIT

Such Is Court of Appeal Ruling in Rattenbury vs. Land Settlement Board

VICTORIA, March 6.—A fiat must be secured before action can be taken against the land settlement board, is the ruling of the British Columbia court of appeal by allowing the appeal of Rattenbury vs. the land settlement board.

The ruling reverses the judgement of Mr. Justice Morrison who on the point being put to him for decision as to whether the land settlement board as part of the crown could be sued without a fiat ruled that it could. The crown appealed against Mr. Justice Morrison's ruling. The action involves extensive acreage in the interior of British Columbia held by Mr. Rattenbury on which the settlement board called for certain improvements to be done, setting forth penalties in default or calling for a sale of the land on the board. Mr. Rattenbury seeks damages from the board, the point of whether action against the board without a fiat being first secured was possible, having to be decided before the main action could be commenced.

Let a Foul Murderess Suffer Just Punishment

There is the usual campaign among sentimentalists to save Doris McDonald, convicted in Montreal of murder, from hanging.

Because the murderess is an American, an especial effort is being made on the other side of the international boundary to secure for her a reprieve.

The argument is that Doris McDonald is a woman, that she is young, and of course, that she is beautiful. All young murderesses are beautiful in the eyes of the sentimentalists.

Doris McDonald should hang. She should suffer the penalty of a foul and cowardly murder. Her husband, says this charming young person, was too "yellow" to murder, so she shot the unfortunate taxi driver; shot him four times, in the back.

If the sentimentalists who are always trying to help some criminal to escape punishment would divert a little of their sympathy to the victims and their relatives they would be doing far less harm.

Danger in the Alternative to the Absentee Votes

Abolition of the absentee vote by the MacLean government meets with general approval, but the proposed alternative of allowing absentees to vote on a special "traveler's certificate" is very much open to objection.

The objection to the now discarded absentee vote was that the votes so cast were in the hands of partisan election officials for three weeks or so after they were cast and before they were counted. In the last general election some queer things happened to some of these absentee votes.

To meet the objection, the government proposes that a voter who expects to be absent from his riding on election day secure, by personal or written application, a certificate which will enable him to vote in any riding in the province for one of the candidates running in the riding, where he is registered. When he applies to the registrar for a certificate his signature will be compared with that on the original form of application for registration. When he receives his certificate he will sign it. When he votes he will sign the poll book and his signature will be compared with that on the certificate.

So far, so good. But registrars of voters and election officials are not handwriting experts and the danger is that the new method will provide an opportunity for "plugging."

"Plugging" involves the employment of men to vote in the names of people on the list who are absent, dead, or otherwise unable to vote. A single plugger has been known to vote in the names of as many as 40 genuine voters.

Under the proposed "traveling" vote what is to prevent a "plugger" being supplied with 20 or 30 certificates, making a rough imitation of the signatures and voting in 20 or 30 different polls? To obtain the certificates someone would have to carry out a little rough forgery, but a little thing like forgery, which in this case could be carried out in reasonable safety, would never deter an organizer of "pluggers."

The government should consider very seriously this new danger.

We should leave no stone unturned to keep our franchise free from suspicion.

No Saturation Yet in Automobiles

For some years fears have been expressed that automobiles in the United States and Canada had reached the saturation point.

But nearly every year, sales have increased. The demand seems to be a bottomless pit which cannot be filled.

For the first two months of this year, reports by leading manufacturers show a further increase in sales to dealers and from dealers to the public.

That is all to the good. The more owners of automobiles we have the better.

One of the complaints parents naturally make regarding games, is that they take too much time and thought away from the studies.

That a boy will be practicing the games every day, will be talking about them, will play match games which will cause hours of talking about afterward, and so forth.

Now, games, athletics, do take up time. In fact, in some colleges in the United States, a student who is on any representative team, is allowed one-fifth of his year's examination, because he is giving up so much time for his college or university.

However, the professors, while deploring the loss of so much time to athletics, admit that the members of the class who indulge in athletics are the most "alert" members of the class.

I have in mind a university where more than the usual number of "colors" were awarded one year, and on investigation it was found that every color winner had passed his year's examinations, many of them with honors.

And why shouldn't an athlete do well in his studies? As Curtis has well said, "The attitude of mind which is found in play is the

BRIDGE REFRESHMENTS

TOMORROW'S MENU

- Breakfast: Bananas, Cereal, Boiled Eggs, Coffee. Luncheon: Codfish Balls, Lettuce Salad, Whole Wheat Bread, Marmalade, Tea. Dinner: Halved Grapefruit, Lamb Stew with Potatoes and Peas, Dumplings, Apple Betty, Hard Sauce, Coffee.

From my own personal experience I know that women never tire of hearing how other women conduct a bridge party. "What shall I serve for bridge refreshments?" is a question which comes to me frequently from my readers.

We started playing at 8 o'clock. At 10 o'clock our hostess slipped into her kitchen, whisked eight dainty individual salads out of her refrigerator and, with the help of one guest-friend, quickly placed these on the two tables, before the players (who were still seated around the card tables). On each plate was not only a "curly" leaf of lettuce heaped with a mixture of seeded and diced Malaga grapes mixed with nuts and diced apples, all moistened with mayonnaise dressing, but beside the lettuce-leaf was a small pile of tiny square cheese crackers.

Next, came eight large cups of coffee, accompanied by a small tray holding a little pitcher of rich cream and a bowl of lump sugar.

As we started to eat our delicious little meal we noticed that our hostess had placed on a nearby table a plate heaped with small cakes with different colored icings, and beside this plate a silver dish containing chocolate candies. As I studied the little cakes (to be served later, with second cups of coffee), I wondered why women do not go to the trouble of coloring their icings. Our hostess had used cooked spinach, forced through a fine-meshed wire sieve to give a green tint to white uncooked frosting on some of the cakes; and on others she had used egg yolk for a yellow tint, strawberry jam (sifted) to give a pink tinge, and chocolate icing to make star-decorations over some of these plain colors.

Because some people do not sleep well after drinking coffee late at night, however, the coffee could be substituted by Russian chocolate in these refreshments if desired (Russian chocolate being a mixture of one-half made coffee and one-half made cocoa).

attitude in which the mind is at its best, is most alert. Because, in play, the student, or anyone in fact, is keyed up to his very best.

He has the signals in mind, has to figure on just where his opponent is, and where the player or players of his own side are doing, or are likely to do; must be ready to do something different if the play turns out differently to what was planned or expected.

His mind is completely absorbed in the play, and he concentrates on it. It is this forgetfulness of self in his thought for the team, that benefits the unselfishness of which I have spoken before. I believe you can see the point clearly that a child, boy or girl, that plays games with his or her companions, enters into them with a zest that is not always present in other things.

It is this zest that brings out the mental effort to its highest point of efficiency. The time is not far distant when play will not be considered just the recreation part of school or college life, but will be considered an integral or essential part of the mental training.

So, encourage your child to play for the sake of the physical, mental and moral development that may be attained.

INSTITUTE MEETS AT CASTLEGAR

Shower Is Success; Map Out Plans for Future Monthly Meetings

CASTLEGAR, B.C., March 6.—The first monthly meeting of the Castlegar institute, after the reorganization, was held in Farmer's hall, and presided over by Mrs. McCauley, the president, supported by the vice-president, Mrs. McKinnon, Mrs. Speakman, secretary, and a full register of members. The meeting opened by singing "O Canada," Mrs. Speakman at the piano.

The following new members were initiated: Miss E. Christenson, Miss E. Olsen, Miss Parent, Miss P. Maxwell, Miss H. Hansen, Miss Hay, Mrs. Drain and Mrs. Cook.

The first item on the agenda was the "self-supporting" one of a cup and saucer shower to provide crockery instead of hiring each time. This met with a generous response, cups and saucers, cream jugs and sugar basins coming in, enough to provide a fair treat for a good-sized community.

Subjects, for preparation by members, to be read and discussed at future meetings, were then decided upon as follows:

- Community advancement — By the new members.
- Education and better schools, public health and child welfare — Mrs. McCauley, Mrs. Lampard, Mrs. Olsen, Mrs. Christenson and Mrs. Drain.
- Home economics — By Mrs. McKinnon.
- Immigration — By Mrs. Robinson.
- Industries — By Mrs. Lawson.
- National parks — By Mrs. Wallmer.
- Agriculture — By Mrs. Hansen and Mrs. Dumont.

Hostesses for teas in future are to be taken two at a time in alphabetical order from the membership list.

It was decided to hold the meetings on the second Saturday afternoon in each month.

Tea was served by Mrs. McKinnon, Mrs. Olsen and Mrs. Wallmer.

Fresh And Modern In Design And Purpose

MILDRED always goes to the opera matinee where her school has its weekly box, and that puts a strain on her wardrobe. Here is one of her most satisfactory frocks for it is dainty enough to go dancing in at tea afterwards—and very much in the vanguard of fashion. The new one sided necklines is cut down to meet a jabot, (which may be lace), and the circular flare of the front skirt joins the frock repeating the diagonal outline of the neck. A good quality crepe de chine, silk crepe, crepe roma, light weight satin crepe, or transparent velvet is necessary to retain all the beauty of line of this very original model. The Girl Who Leaped Into Life
By NANCY BARR MAVITY

CHAUTER VI.

Shirley launched upon creation as she pushed off from shore and neither a backward nor a forward look. This young man, wistful for romance, waiting for the unusual, should have his wish fulfilled, insofar as she could do it, anyway. She did not know, when she began, how she would end—but at any rate he should have something better worth listening to than the story of a girl who had only run away from Berkeley.

That was serious enough, too, when you were the one who was doing it. But he should have brighter colors, a much splashier design than that. And almost at once the picture began to take shape in her mind. There was no difficulty about going on—why, the thing fairly happened of itself!

Her mother, she said, was an American who, traveling with friends in Europe, had met and fallen heroically in love with a Russian—a terribly circumscripted Russian, first cousin to the czar, who was traveling semi-incognito to escape the formalities of his rank. And he had fallen no less heroically in love with her. There had been a terrible storm in Leningrad—St. Petersburg, of course, it was then. A title of a sort—a long Russian name with the courtesy handle of princess attached—had been bestowed upon the girl when every sort of pressure had been vainly brought to bear to separate them and annual their Parisian marriage. The grand duke had been forced to make the concession that his wife would never claim the rank of grand duchess—the marriage was, in effect, morganatic.

The girl's family were furious. Her father had sailed post haste for Europe and in a bitter interview had accused the czar's august representative of making his daughter no more than a mistress, winding up with an immediate offer to take the grand duke lover outside and smash his jaw. He had been firmly and with great rapidity escorted to the frontier by a courier. But the lovers held firm. They lived quietly, the grand duke firmly declining to give up his American wife for a diplomatic marriage.

"Mother was terribly homesick sometimes," Shirley said with a quiver of sympathy in her voice. "But I'll never forget how she said to me once—I was quite little at the time: 'If you ever have the chance to give up everything else for the one thing big enough, it's worth it.'"

Then came the revolution of 1915. I was— Shirley paused an instant and performed some rapid mental subtraction—"only seven years old then. But it's not a thing one can forget ever. It was like the end of the world, a sort of earthquake which shook down more than buildings—it shook down like itself, all the life we knew. My parents escaped to Paris—I don't remember much about that, except being bundled up in the dark, and cold—so cold—and learning that life itself depended on my being absolutely quiet. My father got work as a taxi-driver. But then other people—and news—began to slip through from Russia.

"Finally father went back, in disguise to help in the underground work against the new regime. If he was recognized, of course, he'd be killed at once. But that was patriotism to him, you see—the old Russia was the only Russia he thought of as real, as his Russia. For a time messages from him were smuggled through. Then they stopped. At last mother couldn't stand it any longer and she and I went back to look for him. I think she was a little out of her mind with grief and worry and horror. The risk, of course, was terrific. But we found no trace. He was killed, most certainly. But I am glad that mother never believed it. She died of pneumonia a week after we slipped across the frontier. I—I have to be almost glad.

"It is all a sort of chaos in my mind after that. I took my mother's maiden name, Shirley Hardin. An English family—the man is a distinguished writer and professor with radical views and the government was showing no end of courtesies to make a good impression—took me on a sort of secretary-interpret because of my knowing Russian. Their party had all sorts of privileges, and I got across Siberia under their wing and down to Shanghai. They were going on through the orient, but I wanted to get to America. I had saved enough of the salary they paid me to cover my fare to San Francisco—and here I am. I want to find my mother's people, but communications were broken off long before I was

Halifax, N.S., March 6.—(Special)—"I can truly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from kidney troubles," writes Mrs. E. Young, who lives at 101 Barrington Street. "When I was a girl of fourteen I was stricken with scarlet fever. On recovering it left me with kidney trouble. I suffered with untold agony. Doctors' medicine was of no avail. I could not walk. A neighbor said: 'Why not try Dodd's Kidney Pills?' My adopted parents got me some and I took three boxes. I found relief and have not been troubled since. Any and all who suffer with their kidneys as I did should use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I always recommend them when I hear of anyone suffering from pains in the back caused from kidney trouble."

UNITED CHURCH PRESBYTERY IN SESSION HERE

Grant $600 and Loan $1000 for East Trail Church; Recommend Missionary

RECOMMEND A SOCIAL WORKER FERNIE FIELD

Make Grants; Three Resignations; Dr. Auld Presents Situation in China

Kootenay presbytery of the United church, at its spring meeting, held three sessions in St. Paul's United church here yesterday morning, afternoon and evening. Representing 16 points in East and West Kootenay and the Crow, 44 delegates attended.

Recommendation of grants to various points, consideration of home mission work, and an address on China by Dr. Auld were features.

Rev. O. Darwin, D.D., of Vancouver, superintendent of missions, took a leading part in the discussions. He left Nelson on the Kettle Valley train last night.

Rev. W. C. Mawhinney of Trinity United, Nelson, presided. Rev. Bryce Wallace of Cranbrook was secretary. Sessions will continue today.

OPTIMISTIC

Addressing the presbytery, Dr. Darwin stated there was an optimistic spirit pervading the church throughout British Columbia. Sharing in the prosperity of the Dominion, he said, the church was consecrating itself to becoming a greater force in the land.

Dr. Darwin stated the maintenance and extension fund has been well sustained. Of the $1,850,089 allocated to Canada and Newfoundland, $265,163 was spent in this province. Oriental and Indian work consumed a large amount of this, but too much was spent in English-speaking fields.

GRANTS PASSED

Applications for grants were passed as follows: Creston, $500; New Denver, $1000; Midway, $1800; Kimberley, $525; Michel, $850; Nakusp, $900; Slovan City, $1200; Wardner, $1200, and Windermere, $1400.

Resignations of Rev. J. Hirdman of Creston, Rev. C. Lancaster of New Denver, and Rev. E. J. Thompson of Windermere were received.

Grant of $600 and a loan of $1000 was made for construction of a United church building in East Trail. A grant of $1400 for a missionary who would work at Ymir, Fruitvale, Salmo and other Great Northern points, while making his headquarters in East Trail, was recommended.

FERNIE'S NEED

Seeing need of a worker to go among the foreign population of Fernie, the presbytery will recommend appointment of a social worker or some trained person to this field. Rev. E. L. Best of Fernie, in presenting the case, stated that over half of Fernie's population of about 4500 was of foreign birth, and deplored the lack of church workers among them.

Tracing China's history since occidentals became interested in it through trade, Dr. Auld told of present-day developments in China, and forecast a brilliant future for this great nation.

PATRIOTS

He upheld the Nationalist party as a group of patriots seeking to give China her right place in the family of nations; to give China democracy; to eradicate China's illiteracy, and generally to modernize China.

Dr. Auld defended the argument of merchants that China is not yet ready for self-government and so should not be given complete control of her destiny, but stated the merchants lacked a vision of the future.

The Chinese church, when missionaries were withdrawn because of the civil war, had shouldered its responsibilities in a remarkable manner, said the doctor.

In September the Church of Christ in China was organized at Shanghai, and the Chinese would now assume to a greater extent management of their own church affairs. They would still born, you see, and I don't even know what part of the country they lived in. America is so fearfully large," Shirley said wistfully.

Jim had looked sharply at her once or twice during the earlier part of this narrative. But Shirley's gaze was transparently honest. Well it might be, for she felt honest. Her emotion was genuine; she was borne along on the flood tide of creation. By the time she had finished, if she did not believe that these things had happened to her, she at least thought that, but for the accident of fact, they might have happened.

The waiter hovered over their table, waiting to pounce upon the coffee cups. The chairs at the other table were all set in empty exactitude in their places.

"Oh, dear, what a lot I've told you. I shouldn't have gone on like that," Shirley said apologetically.

Jim's eyes, blue as aquamarines, flowed across the table.

What a wonderful girl! And what a life! To have been through all that—romance, tragedy, adventure—and only eighteen! (Jim had done some mental subtracting on his own account).

The excited color ebbed from Shirley's cheeks. She came back to earth with such abruptness that she felt as if she had fallen with an actual bump.

"I must go—I must—" She was outside the door ahead of him. He was delayed by paying the bill and had to take a few running steps to catch up with her.

"But look here—you can't wait a minute! You'll let me see you again? You'll come back here—"

"Perhaps," gasped Shirley, and sped almost running down the street.

DAIRY REQUEST WILL BE AIRED

So States Hon. Mr. Robb in Reply to Request for Abrogation Australian Treaty

OTTAWA, March 6.—Consideration of the national dairy council of Canada request for an immediate abrogation of the Australian trade treaty was promised by Hon. James A. Robb, minister of finance, who with a number of cabinet members met a delegation from the council headed by J. A. Calder, president, today.

R. P. Langford, who represented the Bread and Cake Makers of Canada, spoke against the trade agreement as it affected the importation of raisins. Replying to the delegation's request, Mr. Robb said the policy of encouraging inter-empire trade had been the factor which had inspired the government to conclude the trade treaty. Australia had given Canada concessions commensurate with those received from this country, and the finance minister pointed out that within the last few days he had received a resolution from the farmers of Saskatchewan which demanded free trade within the Empire within five years.

Outlining the demands of the national council, Mr. Calder restated the three requests presented to the government last December:

1. That the order-in-council applying schedule II, of the Australian agreement to New Zealand be rescinded at once.
2. That the dumping clause be applied on all butter sent from Australia to Canada on consignment as well as on direct sale.
3. That the agreement be terminated as provided for in the act of 1925.

Mr. Calder emphasized that the council was insistent in its demand. The delegation was backed up by resolutions of a specific character from provincial organizations all over the Dominion.

An Old Recipe to Darken Hair

By JANICE RANDALL

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

NO MATTER WHAT YOUR AGE MAY BE

If Your Life Is Handicapped By Inability and Chronic Weakness Make This Test Today!

Remember "old age" lack of ambition, power and the ability to work and enjoy life as in former days is more a matter of reserve vitality and abundant nerve force—than the passing of a certain number of years.

If you really desire it and have a spark of genuine "fighting spirit" left—you do not need to give up your usual activities and submit to the empty meaningless days and chronic weakness of old age—and here's a simple home test to prove it!

Eat plentifully of nourishing foods, take regular but not tiresome exercise and from your druggist obtain a plain sealed package of Double Strength Erbac tablets. The package will contain a 20-day supply, more than enough to convince you of the great value of this special private formula.

No matter about your age or how many treatments you have tried without success—if you now want results you should start this 20-day home test at once. If not well pleased with the outcome—the druggist who supplied you with Erbac is authorized to return your money.

HEAPS MAKES HIT WITH PREMIER

Labor Member Is Upholsterer and He "Does Over" Dilapidated Chair

OTTAWA, March 6.—The amenities of parliamentary life are not all confined to the chamber over which Mr.

Speaker resides. Social gestures are not uncommon among parliamentarians, but it is seldom that true craftsmanship plays a part in the relationship of political opponents.

A. A. Heaps, Labor, Winnipeg North, is an upholsterer by trade, and with the eye of an artisan he once observed in the prime minister's office that Mr. King was using a dilapidated chair which was quite out of accord with the other fixtures of the room. The chair happened to be one of Mr. King's most cherished possessions as Sir Wilfrid Laurier had used it in the office in the east block throughout all the years of his premiership. Again and again he had refused to permit the department of public works employees to touch it during the periodical renovations of the offices, but the offer of the Labor member of parliament to upholster the prized chair was accepted. With borrowed tools from an Ottawa workahop, Mr. Heaps upholstered the historic chair with soft olive green leather. It is now back in the prime minister's office in the east block along with several smaller chairs which were refinished at the same time, but the excellence of Mr. Heaps' workmanship is apparent even to the unexpert eye.

Twenty-seven Hotels to Open Beer Parlors in Manitoba Wednesday

Members of the liquor commission were in conference today and the first licence may be granted this week.

The controversy between the local brewers and the commission with respect to the price of beer is still unsettled. A further conference between the two factions is scheduled for this week.

Stone Cold at 5, Rube Knocks 'em Cold at 3

By AL DEMAREE (Former Pitcher New York Giants) Newspaper men complain that there is nothing interesting to write about the modern ball players, who are efficient enough, but who lack the "color" of the old-timers. True, there are few who have color like Rube Waddell, Larry McLean and Mike Donlin on the club rosters of today. Grover Cleveland Alexander has it, as has Babe Ruth. Alex is the "right-handed" Rube Waddell. Hack Wilson, "Oil" Smith and Rogers Hornsby also have some color, but there is no one quite like Waddell. Rube was liable to disappear any time and be found out on the prairie lots pitching for some kid team just because he liked the game.

The Giants were playing the Athletics in an exhibition game in New Orleans once when McGraw was very eager to whip the American league club. The night before the game he took Waddell out and got him drunk; left him stone cold at 5 o'clock in the morning. "He's the only guy I was afraid of," said Mac, "and he won't do us any damage." About five minutes to three Rube showed up on the field. Tossed three or four warm-up balls and then went in and shut out the Giants with two hits, fanning 12!

FINNISH RUNNER IS DOING WELL

Takes Lead in Cross Continent Run; Indian Ahead as Far as Time Goes

VICTORVILLE, Cal., March 6.—Another flying son of Finland came in for laurels in the transcontinental foot derby today when Nester Erickson showed his heels to the dwindling field of runners and walkers by covering 45.4 miles of the 3400-mile course in 6 hours 47 minutes and 20 seconds.

The long, hard course had its effect today, and more than a dozen of the entrants dropped from the running. A checkup revealed that the Indian, Quanaawah, from Arizona, took the lead today for the total of elapsed running time since the racers left Los Angeles, despite the fact that Erickson outtraced him into Victorville.

Quanaawah's elapsed time since the race started Sunday is 13:34:15 for the total of 97.1 miles. His time today was 6:55. Erickson's elapsed time was 13:39:20. The Canadian entrants were presumably still going strong tonight. They are: Walter Ricketts, address unknown; Frank Jackson, Winnipeg; J. Stevens, Calgary; W. J. Ferguson, address unknown; Osmond Metcalf, Toronto; Tony L. Loeslein and J. Eugene Germain, Montreal; H. A. McNutt, Alberta; John Durn, Calgary; George Liebbevall, Bellevue, Alta.; R. D. Lesge, Montreal; Phillip Miller, Saskatchewan; George D. Taylor, Calgary; Henry Swabri, Ontario; David H. Davies, Sandwich, Ont.; and Phil Granville, Hamilton, Ont.

Budget Debate Gets Under Way in the Ontario House

TORONTO, March 6.—The annual budget debate got well under way today when opposition members in the Ontario legislature were given their first opportunity to criticize the financial statement delivered last week by Hon. J. D. Leith, provincial secretary. An amendment to the provincial treasurer's motion that "the house go into committee to consider supply" was offered. R. F. Miller, Liberal, Haldimand, brought out an amendment "regretting the failure of the government to assume the full cost of construction of provincial highways and relieve the municipalities of the share they are now required to contribute." He charged that in the past four years the Ferguson government had spent $146,000,000 over and above the expenditures of previous administration.

The ban against women betting at the race tracks in Victoria, Australia, has been removed by legislative act. Neenah (Wis.) council will not allow a public motor coach to park on any local street for more than five minutes at a time.

FLIN FLON TO PRODUCE BY THE FALL OF 'THIRTY

Head Office Will Be Opened in Winnipeg; Will Mean Employment for 1000 Men

WINNIPEG, March 6.—Steady production of copper, zinc and gold at the Flin Flon mine may be expected by the fall of 1930, if all plans work out as expected, according to R. E. Phelan, vice-president in charge of operations of Flin Flon mines, limited, who is spending a few days in the city making the necessary arrangements for the establishment of the company's head office here. By that date, he estimates that $10,000,000 will have been spent on the mining plant and smelter alone. The capacity of the mill and concentrator to handle the product of this plant, Mr. Phelan said. This will mean steady employment for 1000 to 1200 men.

While the final decision regarding the location of the town site is not yet made, Mr. Phelan was able to say definitely that it would be in Manitoba. The mine itself straddles the Saskatchewan-Manitoba boundary. By the end of the winter of 1929, Mr. Phelan said, it was expected that cement and structural steel could be run by rail right to the mine, while by the end of the summer of 1929, he predicted that a permanent roadbed would be laid down and all year around railway transportation possible to and from Flin Flon and The Pas. In that year, he said, the heavy plant and machinery would be shipped in and the final construction and installation of plant and smelter would be made.

BOBBY GUIDED CANUCK FLYERS OVER ICE FLOES

(Continued from page one) from the top of a high ice hummock to the eastward could be seen dark low-lying clouds, appearing very much like open water; to the westward, and in opposite direction of travel, appeared high contoured skyline, indicating icebergs or land. Decision was made then that to travel westward was lesser of two evils, and party doubled back over their first day's travel, slightly to the south, in which direction sky line was most outstanding.

On afternoon of the 20th their objective was definitely found to be land. From 21st to morning of 24th weather became very bad, stormy and no visibility. During this time compass course was followed. On 24th land became clearly visible again, and rather than lose it again party traveled all that day and all that night, reaching land Saturday afternoon, 25th, in weather 25 below. During early part of travel over ice air raft was used in crossing leads, which became more numerous as they neared coast line. Air raft, together with many items of clothing, eventually discarded to cut down load and small ice pans used as rafts.

FOOD CONSUMED "In the meantime, all food had been consumed, due, for most part, to an excellent appetite of the native, and for about 24 hours party without food of any kind until walrus was shot and eaten raw.

"After reaching land about 15 miles north of Nachvak, northerly direction, slightly inland from coast, was followed, and until afternoon of 28th no sign of any life or habitation was seen. On this day Eskimo hunter and his wife with komatik and dog team appeared, and they were able to pin point their location definitely and made arrangements with the natives picked up to bring them to Burwell, which point they reached at midnight March 1, cold, hungry, slightly frost-bitten, but with all happy."

Mrs. L. Mantle, Millet, Alta, writes: "My youngest child had a very bad cold which she got by going out playing in a strong, cold wind not properly dressed."

CARNATION ORE GETS MILL RUN IN HEWITT MILL

Ore Comes Through Ridge and Reaches Mill by New Two-Mile Aerial Tram

VICTORIA SYNDICATE IS STEADILY MINING HEWITT

Lucky Jim's New Mill Awaits English Engines; Work Underground Is Maintained

After extended development work on the Carnation-Wakefield property, a feature of which was driving a tunnel through the ridge to give this former Sandon mine a connection toward Silverton, the Victoria Syndicate is now giving Carnation ore its first "mill run" in the Hewitt mill. About a week's run is intended.

Part of the work of converting the Carnation from a Sandon property to a Silverton one consisted in equipping it with an aerial tram two miles in length, from the new tunnel to the mill, said to be the most modern thing in transit. The mill is about four miles from Silverton.

When the Carnation run is over, the Hewitt mill will resume on Hewitt ore, on which it has been operating since the first of the year, treating about 50 tons a day. It will continue mining and shipping.

The new 200-ton mill just completed at the Lucky Jim mine at Zimeton, which is operated by the Victoria Syndicate, is awaiting the arrival of oil engines from England before "turning over." It should be concentrating ore within a month.

Meantime, work on the Lucky Jim is being maintained.

by the Omo Investment company of Spokane, operating a large mining property in southern Idaho.

John Nohl of Howser is the vendor of the Riverside group of three claims, on which the vein has been developed to a certain extent, and Mr. Mulholland is the vendor of the new Portland group, whose two claims he staked last summer after tracing the vein, at which time he obtained an option on the Nohl claims.
The five claims are all on the east side of the Duncan river, on McGuire creek, which empties into the Duncan 10 miles above Howser lake.

A BIG SHOWING
The development on the Riverside consists chiefly of open cuts, exposing an ore shoot 1000 feet long. This shoot, which is of silver-lead ore, averages so far about 18 inches of clean shipping ore, assaying from $80 to $100 in lead and silver, the silver ratio being about half an ounce to each percent of lead.
The vein itself, which is about three feet wide, has been traced through the Portland group as well, and the combined properties thus have a continuous vein for several thousand feet.

This vein caught the eye of M. F.
Banoroff of the geological survey, when he described the "fissure veins of the bedded variety in the folded structure of the Lardeau," which he pointed out, in the case of the western slope of the Purcell range, were sometimes persistent in outcrop for thousands of feet. "The metalliferous vein on the Riverside group, up from McGuire creek," he observes, "is of this sort, and displays excellent galena ore in quartz."

A good trail exists, Mr. Mulholland states, from camps on the river bank to the camp at the Riverside property, about 2500 feet above the river, now, of course, under snow.

JACK THOMPSON TO DIRECT WORK

Mr. Nohl has been instructed by Mr.
Mulholland, who will represent the Omo Investment company in this province, to clean out the winzes and other deep cuts on the Riverside as soon as weather conditions permit. Then, as soon as navigation opens on Howser lake, a contract will be let to dig a 500-foot crosscut tunnel to tap the ore shoot at a depth of about 400 feet, the ground there being very steep. Development will be under the management of Jack Thompson, well-known mine superintendent of the Slocan, who is in charge of the Omo company's operation in southern Idaho.

The entry of the Spokane company into this district is stated to be the result of indorsement by the shareholders of a proposal to "broaden out." The deal is said to have been a cash one.

Representations made to the provincial government for continuation of the existing road on the east side of Howser lake, a further five miles to the head of the lake, and thence on up into the Duncan, and to which it is believed the government intends to respond, will gain further force from this new operation,
Mr. Mulholland points out.
